The 23-ton airliner, belonging to the Royal Mail Company, was not lost due to enemy action, the announcement said. The cause of the mishap is under investigation.

A last radio message came shortly after it had left its last port of call.

Slash fires are still burning in the Pleasant Valley and Cedar districts, but are now under control.

Minister Announces

3rd Victory Loan $750,000,000 On Sale Oct. 19

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's Third Victory Loan will be opened Oct. 19 with an objective of $750,000,000, Finance Minister Isley announced today.

Denominations and maturities of the bonds to be sold, will be announced later.

The last Victory Loan, floated in February, had a $600,000,000 nominal objective, but was greatly oversubscribed.

In a brief statement released at the same time as the minister's announcement, G. W. Spinney, chairman of the National War Finance Committee which organizes loan campaigns, said:

"The challenge and the opportunity presented to the Canadian people at this time in the form of the Third Victory Loan may well prove to be a matter of consequence in the winning of the war."

HIGHEST SO FAR

The $750,000,000 objective is the highest of any of the five loans since the war began. The first was for $300,000,000; the second for $300,000,000; the third and fourth—First and Second Victory Loans—for $600,000,000. All were considerably oversubscribed.

The first loan was launched in January, 1940, and cash sales amounted to $321,276,850, with an additional $50,000,000 in conversions of maturing issues.

The second was in September the same year, with cash subscriptions of $324,248,300 and conversions of $24,945,700.

The First Victory Loan, in June last year, resulted in cash sales of $730,378,250 and conversions of $106,444,000.

The Second Victory Loan last February brought the government almost $1,000,000,000, with cash sales of $843,127,900 and conversions of $153,539,000.

Canadian Losses At Dieppe 67%

OTTAWA (CP)—The Defence Department disclosed officially today that 5,000 Canadian Army troops, in addition to detachments from all arms and from the other services, took part in last month's Dieppe battle.

The statement was made in a 5,000-word detailed statement on the operation. (See text page 9.)

"The Canadian military force involved," said the statement, "was composed basically of large elements of two brigades of the 2nd Canadian Division, commanded by Brigadiers W. W. Southam of Toronto and S. Lett of Vancouver, and a battalion of the 1st Canadian Army Tank Brigade."

"The Canadian Army troops engaged comprised about 5,000 all ranks."

"In addition, detachments of all arms and services played essential parts in the operation."

Canadian troops involved at Dieppe suffered some 3,350 casualties—killed, wounded and missing. On the basis of the official information in today's statement it was indicated casualties ran 67 per cent of the Canadian soldiers who took part in the attack.

Today's WAR NEWS Analysis

By DE WITT MACKENZIE

Associated Press War Analyst Special Ambassador Wendell Willkie, now in Russia, would achieve a notable contribution to United Nations victory if he could find some way of breaking through a Muscovite reserve which at times forms a really formidable barrier to close cooperation with the other Allies.

What I'm getting at is that the Russians in many instances are maintaining such a close-mouthed attitude about details of their war effort that John Bull and Uncle Sam often find difficulty in figuring just what the situation is. For instance, I believe you'd have to search hard to find a British or American staff officer who claimed to know just what the Red military position has been during the critical fighting in the Caucasus this summer.

PREFERR ACTION

Of course, the Russians are by nature people of action and not many words. Premier Stalin, one of the outstanding leaders of our time, is such a notable example of this characteristic that he sometimes is referred to as the Sphinx of Moscow.

Still, the thing cuts a good deal deeper than that. There have been signs that Moscow might not have complete confidence in her Allies. If there is such lack, the situation hasn't been helped any by the feeling in at least some circles in Russia that the United States and Britain could have done more in the matter of opening a second front. Unfortunately this suspicion must have been strengthened by the demand for a second front from uninformed and ill-advised people in both America and Britain.

FOR QUARTER CENTURY

But it strikes me that we have to look even farther back to find the basic reasons why the Muscovites play their cards so close to their chests that even their friends can't kibitz. For the greater part of the past quarter century the Soviet Union stood apart among the nations of the world because of the almost universal hostility towards the political doctrine of Communism.

So they hoed their own row, and nothing was more natural than that they should build a mighty barrier about themselves to the exclusion of a world which was fearful of Bolshevism.

Proof of this lies in Hitler's misjudgment of the Soviet military strength. That wasn't strange, however, for as I have mentioned before, when I toured eastern Europe just after Munich, I was told in every capital that Russia was impotent militarily, and couldn't wage war.

More Doughboys In Great Britain

LONDON (CP)—Thousands of American troops arrived in Britain recently to swell the ranks of the rapidly expanding United States army in this country waiting for the opening of a second front.

While they have been whisked away to camps already, announcement of their arrival was not permitted until today.

They came in a typical convoy of great ships, which were well-known passenger liners in peacetime, and disembarked at a number of British ports.

The arrival consisted mainly of fighting men and anti-aircraft and transport units. There were also hundreds of army technical experts and some army air force personnel.

Two Victoria Navy Men Missing

Leading Telegraphist James Harker is reported missing and believed killed, according to word received today by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Harker, 1002 Vancouver Street.

Harker was born at Alert Bay, and received his education at Sir James Douglas School here and in Vancouver. Previous to joining the navy he was wireless operator with C.P.R. coast ships. He joined the navy at the outbreak of war, and was stationed here and on the east coast.

No details of how Harker met his death were told in the communication from the navy department.

Besides his parents, he is survived by one brother, Bill Harker, who is at the Sea Island radio range station of the Department of Transport. His father is radio inspector here.

Word was also received today by Alec and Mrs. Wilson of 2517 Margate Avenue that their son, Sub-Lieut. Wilson, navy, is missing and is believed to be killed.

Plan Huge Planes

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator McNary (Rep., Oregon) said he was informed today the War Production Board and armed forces had agreed to let a contract to Henry J. Kaiser, west coast shipbuilder, for construction of three mammoth cargo-carrying airplanes costing a total of $18,000,000.

McNary said it was his understanding the three ships would be constructed in the California plant of Howard Hughes, airplane designer and associate of Kaiser.

Ban Fun in France

LONDON (CP)—The German commander in France has ordered all theatres, movies and other places of amusement in Paris closed tomorrow and Sunday "because attempts against the German army have multiplied recently," Reuters reported today.

Reuters said the order, issued by Gen. Otto von Stuepnagel, was broadcast by the Vichy radio. All sports gatherings were banned for two days.

42 Survivors landed

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (CP)—Forty-two survivors from a torpedoed Allied merchant ship arrived here today.

1 Dead, 5 Missing

Canadian Corvette Charlottetown Lost

OTTAWA (CP)—Loss of the corvette Charlottetown by enemy submarine action, with her commander dead and five of her crew missing, was announced today by Navy Minister Macdonald.

Three other ratings died of injuries.

It was the second Royal Canadian Navy loss reported this week. Monday Mr. Macdonald said the patrol vessel Raccoon had been sunk with her entire complement of 38 officers and men missing. He also reported the sinking by U-boats of four Allied merchantmen.

The Charlottetown's commander, Acting Lt.-Cmdr. John Willard Bonner, R.C.N.R., was killed in action. The five men who are missing are believed killed in action.

One officer and seven men are reported seriously injured—two of them on the danger list—but all are reported improving. Six men were slightly injured, four of them already discharged from hospital.

The other four officers and 35 men were not hurt.

On Convoy Duty, Hit During Fog

When sunk the Charlottetown was fighting off an enemy submarine attack on a convoy. Details of the time, place and the fighting in which the Charlottetown was torpedoed were not given. The announcement simply said the ship "engaged as an anti-submarine vessel in escort duties, was torpedoed and sunk in heavy fog."

Survivors were rescued by another Canadian naval vessel and brought to an eastern Canadian port.

"Naval losses," the minister said in his statement, "are part of the price which must be paid in order that protection may be given the merchant ships carrying supplies to the battlefronts."

He added that the Canadian navy is not taking losses without inflicting punishment and that the enemy is not escaping unscathed.

Delay Good News To Foil Enemy

"It is naval policy to announce the losses of its own ships as quickly as possible when the next-of-kin of the casualties have been advised," said the minister's statement. "Its successes, however, are not announced until it is certain the enemy can gain no help from the information divulged."

Men on the crew of the Charlottetown came from every province except Prince Edward Island, and from Newfoundland and the United Kingdom. Lieut.-Cmdr. Bonner was 42 years old and born at Sydney Mines, N.S. He took command of the Charlottetown in December, 1941.

The Charlottetown was the fourth corvette and the ninth ship lost by the Canadian navy in this war. Previous losses were the corvettes Levis, Spikard and Windflow, the destroyers Fraser and Margaree and the patrol ships Bras d'Or, Otter and Raccoon.

Naval Fight Seen In St. Lawrence

MONTREAL (CP)—Residents of a Gulf of St. Lawrence port visiting here Thursday told of recently witnessing a half-day naval duel between a Canadian patrol ship and a U-boat it had surprised on the surface.

Moving banks of fog, driven by shifting winds, shut off visibility, but the cannonading continued for some time and was followed by the dull crash of exploding depth charges.

However, the Gulf residents did not know the results of the battle. They did not elaborate and their names were not given. Neither did they establish the identity of the battle area.

To Discuss Report On B.C. Shipyards

OTTAWA (CP)—Labor department officials said today a meeting between Labor Minister Mitchell and Mr. Justice S. J. Richards, chairman of a Royal Commission which recently investigated working conditions in British Columbia shipyards, would probably be held tomorrow or Monday.

Take Initiative In Bitter Fight For Stalingrad

HENRY C. CASSIDY

MOSCOW (AP)—Taking a stand with the precipitous banks of the Volga at their very backs, the defenders of Stalingrad have counterattacked and wiped out two enemy wedges within the city in a supreme, last-ditch effort to save the great manufacturing centre from the Germans, the Russians said today.

The Germans precipitated this bitter and thus far successful Russian counteraction by rushing into the city proper from the northwestern outskirts and pushing almost to the cliffs overlooking the west bank of the Volga.

With no choice between counterattack and surrender, the Russians took their stand.

A terrible battle flamed along the tree-lined avenues leading to the river front. The first German units which had speared through the city, pointed by tanks, were forced back. The struggle continued in mounting violence with the enemy trying to fortify himself in the northwestern fringe of Stalingrad.

2 Attacks Beaten Back in 24 Hours

Two successive German efforts to take Stalingrad by storm were reported repulsed in the last 24 hours.

The first penetration into the city's streets, announced in Thursday night's Russian communique, has been repulsed. The midday bulletin today said two battalions of enemy infantry again rushed into one of the streets but were forced to retreat after severe hand-to-hand fighting.

Meanwhile the Red army was credited with a new offensive in the Voronezh area, about 300 miles northwest of Stalingrad.

Red Star, the Russian army newspaper, said an artillery, mortar and aerial bombardment to soften the German positions and push paths through the enemy minefields, barbed wire systems and firepoints was followed by an infantry advance in several sectors.

Russian troops moved forward swiftly from the south and east, the dispatch said, and occupied several positions around German-besieged Voronezh.

Soviets Occupy Number of Hills

On the north side of Voronezh, defences were said to have slowed down the offensive, but the Russians nevertheless were credited with breaking their way through the obstacles. On the west bank of the Don—that is, on the opposite side of the river from Voronezh—a series of important hills was reported occupied.

On the central front where the Russians have been on the offensive for some time they were said to be pressing the foe still farther away from Moscow. (This evidently is a reference to the Rzhev front, northwest of the Russian capital. Red Star said another fortified line had been occupied, 10 German divisions captured and 900 enemy officers and soldiers killed.)

The elite SS Greater Germany division which recently appeared on this front after being taken to the rear for reorganization was reported to have suffered a serious defeat, having lost 1,500 men and more than 60 of the division's original 110 tanks.

Stalingrad, however, remained the most vital sector of Russia's whole great battlefield.

Germans Report 'Bitter Struggle'

BERLIN (From German Broadcasts, AP)—The German high command claimed "further successes" in the battle of Stalingrad today, emphasizing close land and air co-operation in what it called an "embittered" struggle.

The communique contained only the broad general statement of continued success. There was no repetition of previous Nazi claims the fighting had reached the interior of the city and no further word of the advertised special statement from Hitler's headquarters which had been expected to deal with Stalingrad.

Gave Life for Others

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The lonely figure of a sailor who stayed with a sinking destroyer to inactivate bombs which might have blown floundering men to bits was pictured in interviews with survivors of the carrier U.S.S. Yorktown.

The story came from seaman A. B. Herbst, 20, who was on the salvage crew which reboarded the doomed Yorktown in a futile effort to get her to port after the battle of Midway.

He told of the final submarine attack on the stricken ship June 7, how two other torpedoes struck and sank the destroyer Hammann, and how a single sailor stayed behind that others might live.

"We could see this man standing waist deep on the deck of the sinking Hammann," Herbst related. "He was setting the safety on depth bombs so that they would not explode beneath men struggling in the water. I don't know who he was. He stayed there, working, and was still there the last time I looked before the destroyer went down."

5 CANADIANS WIN AWARDS

OTTAWA (CP)—R.C.A.F. headquarters announced award of five Distinguished Flying Crosses and one Distinguished Flying Medal to Canadians serving overseas. P.O. A. M. Beach of Vancouver was among those winning the D.F.C.

The D.F.C. also was awarded to Acting Sqdn. Ldr. W. D. Wigmore and Acting Flt. Lt. A. E. Glazier of Toronto, P.O. George Walter Kusler of New Toronto and Flt. Lt. G. L. MacIntyre of Arnprior, Ont.

Flt. Sgt. C. J. Quinn of Ottawa won the D.F.M., while P.O. C. D. Harris-St. John of the R.C.A.F. Volunteer Reserve, who trained in Canada, also won the D.F.C.

P.O. Beach was given his award for his skill and coolness as a bomb aimer and navigator. "As navigator and bomb aimer, this officer has participated in numerous sorties against targets in Germany, France, Belgium, Italy, Tripoli and Cyrenaica," his citation said. "While based in this country he took part in the first daylight attack on the battleships at Brest. During engagements his gunners shot down an enemy fighter."

"During operations in the Middle East Pilot Officer Beach has maintained his very high standards of navigation and bomb aiming. His coolness in attacks is exceptional."

Wider Co-operation For War Production

DENVER (AP)—The war manpower commission's chief of operations asserted Thursday that "we're losing the war right now—but we must win and will win if labor and management co-operate effectively" in turning out raw materials for manufacture of weapons.

A growing shortage of manpower in raw materials industries is looming into America's No. 1 problem, Brig. Gen. Frank J. McSherry, anti-aircraft officer and manpower specialist, informed the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers' (C.I.O.) 39th annual convention.

The time may come, he said, when men who have left their jobs in mines and smelters for higher-salaried jobs in finished products industries will be compelled to return to their original work.

On a voice vote the delegates voted to increase organizational activities in the southern and southwestern United States and in the Trail, B.C., area.

Another resolution urged that the pay of women in mills be equal to that of men doing the same work, and suggested that women be given free industrial training under government supervision.

Congress Ponders 168-Hour Week

OTTAWA (CP)—The annual convention of the Canadian Congress of Labor today referred to its incoming executive a resolution seeking continuous operation, on a 168-hour week basis, of important war industries.

The resolution received vigorous opposition from a number of west coast shipyard workers when it was placed before the convention Thursday. They have been objecting for some time to a continuous-operation plan proposed by the government for their yards.

Shipyard workers, speaking to the resolution today, said they were anxious to gain maximum production of ships, but objected to sacrificing gains made in past years. They objected also to the manner in which the plan was imposed.

Teacher Shortage Serious Problem

The executive of the Rural Teachers' Executive Association, meeting at Nanaimo this week, went on record as pledging its support to the trustees and to the Union of B.C. Municipalities in their announced efforts to persuade the provincial government that it assume the entire cost of education.

It was indicated that problems of the teaching profession will come before the trustees convention at Kelowna next week.

WARNED GOVERNMENT

Dr. J. M. Thomas of Saanich, rural teacher president, pointed out that his organization had repeatedly warned the government that there would be a serious shortage of teachers this fall unless they saw fit to institute a scale and pay a bonus. There is both a quantitative and qualitative decrease in personnel this year, he added, and the responsibility for this situation rested squarely on the provincial government in its refusal to assume the burden which the rural districts and municipalities were unable to maintain. He warned that all indications are that the shortage will continue to grow. The enrollment at normal schools is low for example. In his opinion young people of today are not going to spend hundreds of dollars on their education for a profession which pays $15 a week when they can earn much more for less training in other walks of life.

Dr. Thomas concluded by saying: "Too long has the burden of taxation for education been on the land; it must be shifted so that the load is more equitably distributed. Also the government must finance a scale of salaries for years of service in teaching in order to attract and retain the service of good personnel so necessary for the training of our youth."

A. Voege of Saanich, R.T.A. vice-president, remarked that the government considers all phases of education except remuneration for teachers as a provincial concern. But the government persisted in claiming that the individual municipality was the employer and responsible for salaries and cost of living bonus.

MARRIED TEACHERS

Miss C. McNab, corresponding secretary and treasurer, said she did not think that married women with teaching certificates, whether they had children of their own or not, would give up their homes to teach on outlying parts for a salary of from $15 to $17 a week and therefore it would only be in the urban centres where the shortage could be relieved by use of married women, in her opinion.

The B.C. Teachers' Federation, with which the rural teachers are affiliated, came in for its share of criticism, too. It was charged that the parent organization was dominated by a clique of highly-paid Vancouver principals, who by controlling the teacher council in 1940 persuaded Dr. G. M. Weir, the then Minister of Education, that pensions were more vital than the rural salary scale.

E. Woodman of "North Shore district pointed out that advertisements are still being carried in the daily press for teachers at $780 per annum and that the government had not raised the statutory minimum to $840, as popularly supposed. It had merely recommended that the trustees pay no less than $840 and that it would consider sympathetically requests from those districts unable to pay the extra $115 a week required per teacher.

Tani Addresses Japanese

TOKYO (From Japanese Broadcasts, AP)—Masayuki Tani, 53, Japan's new foreign minister, reiterated in his first official statement the empire's three major objectives and urged the Japanese to make greater efforts toward realizing them.

Tani summed up the three objectives as: 1. Closer co-operation among the Axis powers. 2. Defeat of the United States and Britain. 3. Establishment of a new order in East Asia.

Returning to Vatican

WASHINGTON (AP)—State Secretary Hull said Thursday that Myron C. Taylor, President Roosevelt's personal representative at the Vatican, is returning to his post despite the fact that Italy and the United States are at war.

Hull said Taylor would resume his mission to the Vatican and would remain there for a limited time.

Asked if this meant the Italians had granted safe conduct to the President's emissary, Hull replied that would have to be assumed.

British Effect Landing on East Of Madagascar

LONDON (CP)—A strong new British force has landed on the east coast of Madagascar and occupied the port of Tamatave after some French resistance, the British East Africa command announced today.

Tamatave is 130 miles northeast of Tananarive, the island's inland capital, and the first British beachhead on the east coast.

The new landing came after the Vichy French colony had turned down British terms for an armistice.

Reuters said it heard a Vichy broadcast reporting that one British column had driven to within 75 miles of Tananarive. This column presumably was one pushing toward the capital after the previous landings on the west coast.

Both British and Vichy French radio reports from the island had announced the occupation of Tamatave, but the communiqué was the first disclosure it was taken by newly-landed forces rather than by an offshoot of the columns moving toward Tananarive through the interior.

Tamatave, Madagascar's principal commercial seaport, was said to have fallen into British hands with little damage, although it underwent a brief naval bombardment. One of the main railways on the island links Tamatave to Tananarive.

Must Curtail Paper

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. war production board has served notice on the printing and publishing industry that it must "face up to the necessity for curtailing its consumption of paper and board," possibly cutting tonnage back to 1940 or 1939 levels.

"Such a reduction in use should be possible and practicable with little or no resultant hardships to the industry as a whole," said W. E. Palmer, deputy chief of the W.P.B. printing and publishing branch.

Drive Against Finns

HELSINKI (AP)—The Russians have been hurling fresh forces at the Finnish lines north of Lake Onega for the past three days, the Finnish high command said today, claiming that all the attacks had been repulsed.

(The Russians reported today that a local attack in one sector of the Karelian (central Finnish) front had forced a Finnish retreat. Helsinki's location of the fighting places it between Lake Onega and the White Sea, along the Murmansk railway.)

Biggest Incomes In U.S. Reported

WASHINGTON (AP)—Louis B. Mayer, an immigrant from Russia who hit the jackpot in Hollywood, still tops the United States treasury's select company of persons receiving more than $75,000 a year.

Mayer's $704,425 salary and bonus from Loew's Inc. for the fiscal year ended Aug. 31, 1941, a treasury list just published shows, was $158,131 more than the second-place man, Thomas J. Watson, received as president of the International Business Machines Corporation. Mayer has been at the top for several years.

Both incomes, as well as most of those in the treasury list, previously had been made public through annual reports filed with the security and exchange commission early in the year. The difference in the two lists is that the treasury reports all compensation for personal services over $75,000, while the annual reports to S.E.C. show only the three top remunerations.

Both lists show only incomes from corporation salaries, bonuses and commissions. Actually, the largest incomes in the United States are from other sources, principally investments. For example, 44 persons paid income taxes last year on 1940 net incomes in excess of $1,000,000, and these 44 averaged $1,877,000 each. In addition, 104 persons paid taxes on net incomes averaging $660,000.

SALARY AND BONUS

Mayer's compensation for the 1941 fiscal year included a $158,000 salary and a $548,425 bonus. I.B.M. paid Watson a $100,000 salary and "other compensation" of $446,294.

The next three places in the treasury list, which it is required by law to publish, were held by Eugene G. Grace, who got $180,000 salary and $298,144 bonus as president of the Bethlehem Steel Company; George W. Hill, with $120,000 salary and $336,415 bonus as president of the American Tobacco Company; and Francis A. Countway, with $30,000 salary and $408,778 bonus as president of Lever Brothers Company.

Singer Bing Crosby received salaries from two companies which aggregated more than $100,000. Paramount Pictures Inc. paid Crosby $302,314 and Universal Pictures Company paid him $150,000, a total of $452,314.

THREE FOR IRENE

Actress Irene Dunn appeared in the list three times with salaries totaling $362,500. She collected $137,500 from Universal Pictures, $135,000 from Columbia Pictures and $90,000 from R.K.O. Radio Pictures.

Loew's Inc. listed 80 persons who received $75,000 and up in the 1941 fiscal year, and 35 others, previously unreported, who got that much and more in 1940. Other corporations having numerous paid employees on the roll included General Motors

Sets Work Record

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP)—Gus Selberg, 54-year-old potman at the Aluminum Company of America's plant here, completed seven consecutive 16-hour shifts the past week, a company spokesman said today. His 112 hours of work in seven days produced enough aluminum to build nine fighter planes.

"I have a son with the navy somewhere in the Pacific," he explains. "I can't fight, but I can produce aluminum. Nine more planes today might end the war a day sooner and bring my son home a day earlier."

"While such a long work week is definitely against the company's policy, we appreciate Selberg's voluntary efforts," David H. Beitem, superintendent of the reduction plant, said.

$1,440-a-Year Jobs Now Go Begging

WASHINGTON, D.C.—This national capital itself is feeling a deep labor shortage. Hordes of eager youngsters no longer flock here with the same yen for $120 and $130 a month jobs.

War department is beside itself trying to hire several thousand new $1,440 girl clerks, and most of the other agencies are equally frantic. Civil Service is practically on its knees, begging people to come here to work.

This unwillingness to plunge into the Washington turmoil has caused Civil Service to revise its junior-clerical tests, following a new, simplified form, and the bureau is pleading with people who live within 50 miles of the city to come to work as their part of the war effort.

Date With Girl Called for Uniform

CALGARY (CP)—All on account of a "date" a young lad from Saskatchewan was taken to a city police cell while police tried to determine what to do with him.

The trouble started several days ago when the boy came to Calgary to join the navy. He was turned down but managed to get a uniform somewhere. When he strolled along the street in the outfit R.C.M.P. officials noticed him, and on stopping the lad found he was wearing the uniform illegally.

In juvenile court the charge was withdrawn and civilian clothes were obtained for the boy. He was released from custody in the afternoon. Wednesday morning the officer who first found the boy wearing the uniform spotted him near the public building, again wearing a uniform. So the officer again arrested him. The "sailor" said he had a date with a girl. She thought he was in the navy so he "just had to have a uniform."

Japanese Push Within 32 Miles Of Port Moresby

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia (CP)—While Australian troops battled Japanese forces in the New Guinea jungles only 32 miles airline from Port Moresby, Allied fighter planes struck a smashing blow at the enemy supply base at Buna, Allied headquarters announced today.

Approximately 35,000 rounds of cannon and machine-gun fire were loosed by the Allied raiders Thursday in a concentrated attack which destroyed or damaged 13 landing barges and set fires in supply dumps which were visible for 25 miles, the communiqué said.

The assault obviously was delivered with a view to relieving pressure on the Australian forces locked in combat with the Japanese near the village of Ioribaiwa, on the southern slopes of the lofty Owen Stanley Mountains.

FIGHTING ABATES

The fighting in that area, which the Japanese reached Wednesday after a swift 8-mile advance, apparently had abated somewhat in intensity, the Allied communiqué describing the action as sporadic.

A spokesman at Allied headquarters, however, said both sides were busily manœuvring for position, and it appeared probable the lull would be short-lived.

The Japanese spearhead at Ioribaiwa is approximately 90 miles southwest of Buna, where the invaders established a base late in July. All the supplies to feed their overland push toward Port Moresby flow through that base, being brought there by ship from New Guinea or from New Britain.

The latter source of supply also was subjected to a new assault by Allied heavy bombers, which set fires visible for 30 miles in a sharp night attack on Rabaul, it was announced.

Gasmata, another Japanese base on New Britain, also was bombed simultaneously with unobserved results.

NEW YORK (CP)—BBC said today that two-thirds of the Norwegian trade unionists, 200,000 men, have left their organizations as a protest against Quisling's attempt to control them. The broadcast was heard here by CBS.

Fuel Oil Not Guaranteed

Gas Rationing Cut For Personal Use

NO NEW SUPPLIES

OTTAWA (CP)—Establishment of a new gasoline rationing category for all persons using a car for personal transportation and not for business, reducing the motor fuel available to them, will be effective Oct. 1, Muni-tions Minister Howe announced. In an address over the CBC network Thursday night the minister said submarine attacks have caused "colossal" damage to oil tankers, reserves of gasoline are about 20,000,000 gallons less than a year ago, and stocks of crude oil and unfinished products are about 40,000,000 gallons less.

Those to be moved into the new AA category are users of cars for other than essential purposes and who can best do without a car if the gasoline supply situation continues to deteriorate, the minister said.

Category AA will permit the purchase between Oct. 1 and March 31, 1943, of 16 units for cars in class 1—the lighter types; 18 units for class 2—the medium size; and 20 units for class 3—the larger types.

The gasoline unit is three gallons in the Maritimes, four in Quebec, Ontario and British Columbia and five on the prairies.

In the present category A, a driver is entitled to 60 units a year and in the sixth months from Oct. 1 to March 31 could get 30 units, almost double the AA allowance. In category A the driver with a class 2 car may receive 34 units every six months and in class 3 38 units.

Everyone who depends on fuel oil for heating this winter will do so at his own risk since the supply of this fuel is more precarious than it was in the summer, said Mr. Howe, adding:

"In the month of July, not one ocean tanker reached Halifax."

"Let us not discount the impact on Canada of submarine warfare."

He could give no assurance there would be sufficient oil for winter heating. If sufficient oil could not be brought into Canada, oil installations that could be converted to coal would be the first to be deprived of supplies.

Car drivers who had already been moved from a higher to a lower category for gasoline rationing would not be moved into category AA. The new category coupon book would not contain more coupons than the book of higher category which might be turned in. Notices would be mailed within the next few days to those being transferred to the new category.

NO NEW SUPPLIES

"You must understand now, that when your coupon book is exhausted your motoring is finished until April 1 of next year," Mr. Howe said.

"For your own protection, as well as for the good of the country, I urge all of you who can do so to lay up your cars in the winter months."

"You will accomplish much to insure an adequate supply of gasoline for your motoring next summer. When your car is laid up the transit controller will find some means for your conveyance to and from your work."

"The brutal fact" was that while gasoline reserves were lower, the demand was increasing because of the quickening tempo of the war, while sources of supply grew smaller month by month.

B.C. STOCKS DOWN

In British Columbia the position had become serious as far back as last March when total stocks of petroleum were down 41½ per cent. Although there had been some recovery due to tanker assistance from the United States, oil stocks in British Columbia July 1 were 4,000,000 gallons below the stocks of a year before.

Today the extraction of fuel oil and aviation gasoline from crude oil was necessary above all else.

"Please do not be led astray by rumors that large stocks of gasoline exist, and that gasoline rationing is not necessary," said the minister.

"We have brought in, and will continue to bring in, all the petroleum for which we can obtain transportation. Out of this petroleum we must take the products required for the war. After that, we have gasoline for the private motor car."

Please do not buy PORK

(FRESH CUTS, BACON or HAM)

In order that Britain may continue to receive from Canada its shipments of bacon and ham, so urgently required for military and civilian needs, you are asked not to buy pork for the next few weeks. This sacrifice is not hard to make.

Just think—in Canada, our dinner-tables are still abundantly provided with a rich variety of nourishing foods. But the tale is different in Britain today. There, luxury foods are unknown and most staples are rationed.

Yet the strain of war on the British people makes complete, nourishing food more and more important to them. Proper diets can only be maintained by steady shipments of essential foods—and one of these is pork from Canada, in the form of bacon and ham.

Do not buy pork. Choose from the wide variety of other foods that we Canadians can buy. Let Canada continue to send full cargoes of bacon and ham to war-torn Britain.

You can help by using any of the following:-

CHEESE • BEANS • CHICKEN • TURKEY
EGGS • FISH • FRESH VEGETABLES • CEREAL

You may buy the following pork products as they are not needed for export to Britain:-

PORK TENDERLOIN PIGS' FEET
HEAD CHEESE PIGS' KNUCKLES

Realism Essential

MORE POWER TO THE COLLECTIVE
elbows of the members of the Union of British Columbia Municipalities in their submission of a postwar rehabilitation program for this province. And we disagree with the morning paper entirely when it says "there will be some regret" that this important provincial organization has "delved into figures." Granted, until the number and type of men to be re-established in municipal areas is known, no arbitrary statement of the cost can be set down. Nor does the Union expect the sum of $86,000,000 to be taken as the final amount required to implement its catalogue of postwar enterprises. By stipulating a specific figure, however, the public will realize with considerable satisfaction that a good deal of thought and labor have gone into the consideration of this collection of proposals—already publicized here and elsewhere.

Had the architects of the program submitted to and endorsed by the U.B.C.M. committed the ancient folly of dealing with glittering generalities, those allergic to change would have been loud and voluble in their condemnation of its futility; and rightly so. It is unnecessary to remind this civic body that the provincial government's rehabilitation commission has obviously avoided placing a "cap" on such plans as it may evolve. The survey being conducted is essentially a fact-finding undertaking—a broad and comprehensive endeavor to collect, study, and dissect every available constructive idea, whether submitted by private individuals or through various groups which have applied themselves to the task. The Union of British Columbia Municipalities can consider itself one of these groups and is to be commended for the workmanlike job it has done at its Kamloops convention.

Criticism of any concrete plan involving the spending of huge sums of money is bound to stem from that element which seems to be finding it difficult to reorientate its thinking. Fortunately for Canada, however, the voice of the disciples of the status quo is a weak one and growing weaker as the impact of the war's progress and the vision of the aftermath command ever-increasing attention. And those who imagine, for example, that the firing of the last shot will be the signal for the return to the old practices are living in a fool's paradise. But the sooner they accept the inexorable logic that if money can be found for destruction it also can, and must, be found for construction, the better it will be for their own peace of mind.

Not for many a long day after peace has been restored will Canadians of this and coming generations be able to escape the financial and other consequences of this war of the continents. For this and numerous additional reasons, then, our thinking and our actions must be based on the realities which the future is bound to impress upon us. The old world of 1939 has gone, never to return.

In the Name of Humanity

CANADA'S DEPARTMENT OF EXTERNAL Affairs has informed M. Rene Ristelhueber, the French minister at Ottawa, that it can scarcely credit reports which indicate Vichy's intention to return refugees from German oppression to the Reich, asking him to express the strong hope of the Canadian government that no actual deportation would take place, and that those placed in concentration camps for deportation would be released as soon as possible. Similar protests have gone from the State Department at Washington and, through the Papal Nuncio at Vichy, from the Pope. Early last month it was intimated that Quisling Laval had ordered the round-up of Jews who had entered France to escape Hitler after the pogrom of 1936; but now it seems that Vichy has heard the crack of Berlin's whip and has extended the original decree to include all such persons as came to France after 1933—which means, of course, since Hitler became the Reich's chancellor. According to reports reaching Ottawa, these unhappy people have been cruelly dealt with, families broken up, and finally herded into concentration camps in preparation for their deportation to countries in which they would be under strict totalitarian control.

Ottawa need have little doubt about the truth of these reports. Adolf Hitler and his gang intend to "liquidate" every Jew on whom they can lay their hands. What is going on in Poland should be sufficient to prove how vile and deliberate is the pattern of the Nazi policy. Nor is it surprising that the creature who wears the label of chief of government at Vichy is a willing tool in this ghastly business. Canada, Britain and the United States may protest to Laval and Petain till the moon turns green; the one will do anything for personal power and the other is as putty in Hitler's hands.

But there is something the Pope ought to be able to do. Even though his native land cuts much the same figure in the national sense as Laval and Petain do in the personal sense when Hitler orders, his unique position as head of a neutral state within an Axis state—especially by reason of his sovereign authority over a religious organization whose communicants number about one-fifth of the human race—presents him with a rare opportunity for a practical demonstration of spiritual leadership that not even the Fuehrer of all the Germans could afford to ignore at this juncture. But a protest on orthodox lines will be love's labor lost. To His Holiness, however, remains the right to denounce—in terms that the majority of the 400,000,000 Roman Catholics of the world will understand and endorse—the Nazi philosophy for the evil thing it is. To be sure, the Pontiff would be stretching his treaty recognizances, but he would also be living the gospel of his Master.

'On Credit' Not Enough

CANADA HAS AGREED TO SELL TO Russia "on credit," $10,000,000 worth of wheat and flour. Under the agreement signed in London, Canada is to make delivery at eastern coastal points, with ocean transportation charges from there to be met by Russia.

A movement is under way in the east—followed by the action of a service club here—to induce the Canadian government to make this $10,000,000 worth of flour and wheat an absolute gift from Canada to Russia. The Toronto Star has taken it up and suggests it would be a fine and fitting welcome to M. Theodore Gousev, the first Russian minister to Canada, if our government were to say on his arrival: "We are giving this year $10,000,000 to our own Mother Country as a free gift. As a free gift to your country, Mr. Gousev, we are going to forget about the $10,000,000 which you are supposed to owe us for the wheat and flour we are supplying. It is yours. Take it as a recognition of Russia's magnificent services to the Allied cause. Take it as our appreciation of the fact that heroic Russians are dying every minute of the day to hold back our common foe, and finally win to victory."

The Star believes the great majority of Canadians would approve such a contribution. From the support given here in last Saturday's tag day for medical aid for Russia, there can be no little doubt about Victoria's approval. Sending wheat and flour "on credit" to our hard-pressed ally is not enough at this time with Russians in their millions suffering and dying as they bear the brunt of the battle for our cause. Certainly it should be a free gift from Canada.

What 'So Few' Did

THIS TIME TWO YEARS AGO, MILITARY observers from neutral countries who had watched Hitler's aerial Blitzkrieg on London were in agreement that a few days more of that punishment would decide whether an attempt at landing a German army on the shores of Albion would materialize, or whether such an adventure would be indefinitely postponed. We recorded that in these columns on Sept. 14, 1940; but the following day the Royal Air Force scored its greatest and most spectacular victory over Goering's Luftwaffe since Nazi planes began to fall from the sky in large numbers on Aug. 13. No fewer than 183 Nazi machines were destroyed on Sunday, Sept. 15—and the "invasion" is now probably a blasted German hope.

It is interesting to go back to those times and look at the day-by-day record. Here are eight dates that will enable generations unborn to appreciate what so few did to save so many, and the following figures, incidentally, include only those daily "bags" which amounted to 75 certain enemy losses or over, and compared with those of the R.A.F.:

August 13	78	13
" 15	180	34
" 16	75	22
" 18	152	22
" 31	88	37
Sept. 7	103	24
" 11	89	24
Totals	950	201

How many more German machines failed to reach their bases only the Luftwaffe's command knows. One of the remarkable features of the R.A.F.'s record, however, was that many of its pilots were saved because they were able to land on British soil. And all that was two years ago. What portly Hermann Goering thinks about the relative strengths of his own and the United Nations' air forces at this stage is again a matter for his own personal concern.

They Are Learning

CONQUERORS OF MORE THAN A million square miles—a third of the size of the Dominion of Canada—the Japanese are learning what the Nazis discovered earlier in Europe. It is one thing to overrun a weaker nation and another to subdue its people. The Japs had supposed that the yellow peoples would welcome release from Occidental tutelage or would submit docilely to enforced co-operation. This appeared to be the case temporarily. But soon the conquered learned that they had been saved from the frying pan only to roast in the fire itself. Is there not a moral in this for Mr. Gandhi?

That plan of Air Chief Marshal Harris to "scourge the Reich from end to end" seems to be unfolding quite nicely—despite some skeptics who accused him of talking too bombastically.

Bruce Hutchison

MILD, TOUGH MAN

OTTAWA.

MR. CHARLES VINING, head of the War-time Information Board, looks like the mildest man in Ottawa. He is one of the toughest. He will need to be if he is to avoid failure and frustration.

His predecessor, Herbert Lash, was a tough man also, and a fine man with a deep patriotism. But he was frustrated from the start by the government's total misunderstanding of the nature of publicity. The government seemed to think that publicity was a thing anyone could manufacture if he had a typewriter. It did not realize that the publicity needed in this nation today is the publication of an idea.

The present government has been so busy running the details of the war—and generally with considerable success—that it has never found time yet to sit down and think about the picture whole; or if it has done so, it has never conveyed such a picture to the Canadian people. It has never given its publicity organization an idea to publicize.

If Mr. Vining is not given such an idea he will be trying to make bricks without straw. He will be working with empty words and whistling in the wind. The idea must come from the government. It cannot be made synthetically by advertising copy writers and signboard painters.

THE FRONTIER

Great ideas don't come along very often. We haven't had a new one in Canada for some 40 years or so. Up to now we have lived on the great elemental force of the frontier, which, with us as with the Americans, has been the greatest fact in our lives. The frontier represented the idea of growth, of expansion, of opportunity for every man to better himself. It represented the idea of individual freedom in the empty land of the west.

The frontier closed in the United States in the nineties when the last free land was taken up. The frontier, as a dominant thing in our life, closed in Canada some years later, and the opening up of new frontiers in the far north does not alter that fact. Those new frontiers are not large enough, do not affect enough people, to provide a real dynamic, a motivating and unifying idea for the whole people. We have become an urban nation and our roots have been torn from the soil. And the ordinary man, confined in his city, no longer feels the satisfaction of the soil, the freedom and the assurance of a good future for himself and his sons. Spiritually, America has been living in a kind of vacuum.

DOES HE KNOW?

Mr. King represents the frontier era, whether he knows it or not. He is the survivor of that great day, the pupil of Laurier, who was the frontier statesman—extraordinary, who rolled back the frontier and filled up the west. But Mr. King's mind is infinitely elastic. He is deliberate, but when he seizes an idea it is his forever and he knows how to use it. Has Mr. King a conception of the new world that is being born? Or does he visualize it only as a kind of distorted, pale reflection of the old? We do not know yet. We wait to see.

Only a real vision of a better Canada is an idea adequate to meet our spiritual need as a nation today. Only a great hope is enough to unite our races in the war and afterwards. Political arrangements won't do it. Party manoeuvres won't do it. And assuredly Mr. Vining won't do it unless he has an idea to convey to the people. He can be a masterly merchandiser but the merchandise must come from Mr. King. If it does not come from him then it must come from someone else for into the vacuum of Canadian life assuredly some new idea is coming. Mr. King had better make sure, by getting there first, that the wrong idea does not enter.

TURNING TO BARTER

Typical of the advertisements German papers are now publishing, the Manchester Guardian quotes these:

"Dental treatment and false teeth offered in exchange for bookcase, rustic and upholstered furniture, oil-paintings, standard lamp."

"Lady's motorcycle. Only traveled 105km. in exchange or part exchange for modern bedroom suite."

"For connoisseurs! Man's gold watch, heavy gold, fine specimen, for sale. Prime Rm. 1,000. Required: Electric refrigerator."

"Stamp collection in exchange for diamond jewelry."

"Typewriter in exchange for round dining-room table (Caucasian walnut)."

"Ladies' dresses, new, woolen and silk, size 44, value Rm. 500, for sale or in exchange for gas stove with grill, electric refrigerator, carpet, and two new elderdowns."

These show clearly how the shortage of consumers' goods in the shops is leading to private barter. The tendency is noted in all fields. Last month the German government issued a decree imposing heavy penalties on every form of barter agreement in business on the ground that barter is closely allied to the black market. In a commentary on the new decree in Deutsche Justiz it is pointed out that "if selling for cash does not continue, then trade on a monetary basis disappears and the price structure becomes unsteady. It is therefore the duty of the government to maintain trade on a monetary basis."

It is an interesting commentary on German-war economy that at a time when the public has more money to spend than ever before money should be ceasing to be the means of exchange.

A man who gives his friends away soon finds he hasn't any left.

By Galbraith

"I think Marines are the most wonderful people! A few more victories like the ones you have been winning and our charge accounts will be unfrozen!"

Pay Cheque a Headache?

By MURIEL EVANS

This morning I received my first pay cheque with all taxes and enforced savings taken from it. Getting this cheque cashed was a shock! I have been in an office for 14 years and now I shall have $3 a week more than I had 13 years ago.

But it's going to be fun. As I look back, it seems that I did so much more with that money than I've ever managed to do with what I've had lately. As my salary increased, my small extravagances increased too. Instead of a sandwich and a milk shake for lunch, I had to have a full course dinner. Instead of walking down to work, I took the streetcar, often the grey bus, which cost two cartickets, and even the odd taxi, when I slept in late or felt tired. Then my clothes used to be chosen for price, and durability, lately they have only been chosen for price.

I used to shop around carefully, looking for what I needed, but the time came when I simply bought what I liked, regardless of the price ticket or of the need. The old adventure of living is going to come back! Shows are going to be a rare treat and chosen with care. Instead of "I feel like a show. What's on?" Lunches will be eaten perched at a counter, instead of in more expensive restaurants. I'm going to see the other side of life and become better friends with my assistant. The drug store has always been her pace, and we've gone off to lunch by ourselves, because I was too proud to sit on a drug store stool.

My new budget demands that I start saving for Christmas now. It means the end of those expensive last-minute gifts for the family. Expensive they had to be, to make up for the lack of thought and care. Then I always hung around the family on Christmas Day to make sure they appreciated these gifts—and they racked their brains to find adjectives to use for them and were very embarrassed.

You may find me Christmas shopping this month! My nine-year-old niece started her shopping in July, at the Church garden parties. In September her presents are all wrapped and addressed and the greatest fun is to unwrap them and show them to all who come (except that very special present that belongs to you!). All the joy of wrapping the presents is experienced 20 or 30 times before the final day. It will be the end of giving because one had to give—a $5 gift here because a $5 gift will be returned. Christmas Day can begin to mean what it should have meant all these years, when I start to give to make other people happy.

B.C. WEED

From B.C. Motor Carrier

Along the road throughout the dry belt of British Columbia grows weed-known as wild lettuce. Today it stimulates another hope for synthetic rubber: is the basis for experiments in the University of British Columbia.

Claims an official of the U.B.C.: "The most promising (of 100 plants being tested) is wild lettuce. It attains a height of from 8 to 10 feet and when the leaf is broken and the sap rolled between two fingers, a small ball of rubber-like material results."

Is YOUR JOB wearing, too?

Here's a tip for sit-down workers...
Sitting all day at a desk or work table doesn't give much chance for healthy exercise. So guard against the headachy, heavy feeling that so often means incomplete elimination. Take these two steps to health: (1) To get well, see your doctor; (2) to keep well, watch your habits. Make sure elimination is complete, but shun harsh cathartics! Get enough "bulk" in your diet to keep the food wastes moving promptly. Start every morning with a bowl of crunchy Kellogg's Bran Flakes With Other Parts Of Wheat. Gently laxative, they help supply valuable minerals and proteins, too. And they're so fresh and crisp, so delicious, you'll want them every day! Look for Kellogg's Bran Flakes in the golden yellow package. Comes in two convenient sizes. And when you breakfast out, order the individual package with the inner, WAXTITE, sealed bag. Made by Kellogg's in London, Canada.

The population of Prince Edward Island at the census of 1941 was 95,047, of which 49,228 were male and 45,819 female. This male majority was continued throughout all the age groups until the age of 75 when in the group between 75 and 79 there were 923 women and 898 men. This proportion was even more

WEDDINGS

TEMPLE-CHEER

Pink and white gladioli massed on the chancel steps and white asters throughout the church formed the background for the wedding at 11 this morning at the Church of Our Lord, when Rev. Canon E. V. Bird united in marriage Marjorie Ethel (Peggy), only daughter of Mrs. M. E. Cheer, 806 Humboldt Street, and the late Mr. E. T. Cheer of London and Paris, and Mr. Ivan H. E. Temple, only son of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Temple, Killarney Road, Cadboro Bay.

The bride was given in marriage by her mother, and wore a becoming afternoon frock of Queen Elizabeth bluesilk crepe and a large blue felt hat. Her accessories were in beige and the corsage bouquet was of pink rosebuds, swainsons and heather. Miss "Nobby" Soderman, cousin of the bride, was the only attendant, wearing a cream flannel suit with matching accessories, and a corsage bouquet of pink carnations. Mr. Eric Cox supported the groom.

An informal reception was held at the home of the bride's mother for relatives and intimate friends. A hand-crocheted cloth covered the bride's table, which was centred with a three-tier wedding cake, and arranged with silver vases of pink rosebuds and pink tapers in crystal holders.

After a honeymoon on the mainland, for which the bride donned a camel-hair coat, Mr. and Mrs. Temple will make their home in Victoria.

The bride wore a lovely gown of white velvet embroidered organza and her full-length embroidered veil was held in place with orange blossoms. She carried a beautiful shower bouquet of roses, heather and gladioli. Her sister, Mrs. Ruby McDonald, was matron of honor, wearing blue chiffon and matching halo hat. Her flowers were pink gladioli and freesia. The bridesmaid, Miss Mary Smith, chose daffodil yellow chiffon with matching halo hat and her bouquet was fashioned of bronze chrysanthemums and ferns. The reception was held in Norquay Hall, where covers were laid for 100 guests. Mrs. John Cullen, mother of the bride, received in a gown of squadron blue crepe and chiffon with matching blue hat. Mr. Lewis Langlois supported the groom. Mr. E. Rowbotham, Victoria, acted as usher.

At the home of the bride's parents, Jubilee Street, Duncan, a small reception was held for relatives and intimate friends. The three-tier wedding cake centred the bride's table, surrounded by ivory tapers, pale pink carnations in silver holders, and white net with sprigs of heather. Rev. H. T. Archibald proposed the toast to the bride. Mrs. Johnson received in a jacket dress in a mist blue shade, a model hat in navy blue, with navy accessories and corsage of yellow roses. She was assisted by Mrs. L. Langlois, who wore a redingote ensemble, the dress of Suez rose figured silk, with black sheer coat, black hat and corsage of pink carnations.

The young couple left for a honeymoon, the bride wearing a dressmaker suit in commando blue, with navy blue hat and accessories, topped with an imported coat of beige herringbone tweed, with wolf collar. On their return they will live in Duncan.

Amongst the out-of-town guests were Mrs. W. Hodgson, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Hodgson, with James and Barbara, Mrs. Gordon Hodgson, Mrs. J. W. Dobbie, Miss Delver Dobbie, Mrs. G. Connor, Mrs. K. E. The bride, given away by her father, wore a gown of white silk lace, with veil hung from a Mary Queen of Scots cap. She carried a white Bible with a nosegay of roses. Miss Beulah Symons, Kelowna, was maid of honor in orchid sheer, and carried a bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums. ## Duncan Schoolgirls Presents Dinghy To Naval College

When the Royal Canadian Naval College opens at Hatley Park next month, among its equipment will be a drop-keel sailing dinghy, complete with sails and rigging.

The dinghy was a gift from the girls of Queen Margaret's School, Duncan, and was raised by them through salvage work, with the assistance of the people of the Cowichan district. The cheque for $670 was presented by Miss N. C. Denny, the principal, to Cowichan War Activities committee in October, 1941, and she recently received a letter from Commander J. M. Grant, R.C.N., H.M.C.S. Royal Roads saying, in part: "The dinghy is at the present time being used for recreational purposes by R.C.N.V.R. probationary officers under training in H.M.C.S. Royal Roads and as you can well imagine it is greatly appreciated. When the R.C.N. college opens in October the dinghy will be used by cadets for instructional and recreational purposes and will prove a useful and very welcome addition to our complement of boats."

Previous to the raising of the money for the dinghy, Queen Margaret's School raised $500 for a parachute. By June of this year another $400 had been raised and sent off towards the cost of a Bren gun. During the summer holidays the pupils have been working on their new objective, another dinghy, and have already raised $280 towards its purchase. In addition, $100 was given this year to the Prisoners of War Fund.

Scottish W.A. Loses Its President

At the business meeting of the W.A., the Canadian Scottish Regiment, the resignation of the president, Mrs. N. Van der Vliet, who is leaving for Kelowna to reside, was accepted with regret. Mrs. S. J. McDonald, first vice-president, was asked to carry on for the balance of the year.

Correspondence and committee reports were given to the meeting. The branch fund at Nanaimo reported a successful tag day and jenkins being made for B Company, First Battalion, overseas. Mrs. Okell's resignation from the welfare group, due to illness, was accepted, and Mrs. W. R. Russell consented to act as chairman of this committee. Patients had been visited at the Military Hospital and received comfort boxes.

Mrs. W. Parker, under whose direction the jenkins for the overseas unit are being made, announced that a shipment would be ready shortly. Appreciation was expressed to Mrs. Parker, who has generously donated a silver tea service, which will be raffled to augment the funds for the First Battalion.

Mrs. Stuart Robertson was asked to make preparations for sending Christmas parcels to nine former members of the Canadian Scottish now on the staff of a training centre in England.

In future, the monthly shipment of cigarettes for the First Battalion, overseas, will be sent to the Auxiliary Services Pool in England and earmarked for the unit.

During the summer months several members have been meeting at the home of Mrs. I. Dymont to make toys for the children's Christmas party. Many attractive articles have been made and keen interest and enthusiasm has been shown in this phase of work.

The auxiliary is anxious to augment its membership and meetings are open to any who may be interested. Mrs. W. G. Talbot, G-1571, will be glad to answer all inquiries. The next business meeting will be held on Oct. 7 at Government House, and during the month group meetings will be organized in various districts. Those interested are asked to phone any member of the executive for information.

Dieppe Official Story Balances Losses With Successes

Chance Meeting With Nazi Tanker Unlucky for Canadian Invaders

OTTAWA (CP)—Following is the text of the official statement on the Dieppe operation last month, released today by Defence Minister Ralston:

It is now possible to give some what fuller details of the combined operation against the enemy forces in the Dieppe area carried out Aug. 19 by forces which included a large body of the Canadian army overseas.

This account is based upon the preliminary report made by the military force commander (Major Gen. J. H. Roberts, officer commanding the 2nd Canadian Division), and upon examination of personal reports made by many participants, including a large number of N.C.O.'s and private soldiers, as well as information from other sources.

It is obvious that many facts concerning operations of this particular nature cannot be revealed without affording the enemy information which he is very anxious to obtain. It is therefore impossible to tell the full story of the Dieppe operation at the present time; but it is the purpose of the present statement to describe as fully as possible without giving assistance to the enemy.

It is impossible to discuss the objectives in detail.

The task of carrying out these operations against a well fortified and strongly-held coastline was one which could be entrusted only to troops of a very high standard of training and general quality.

Gen. McNaughton Approved

Before the employment of Canadian military forces was approved by the G.O.C.-in-C., 1st Canadian Army (Lt. Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton), he had satisfied himself that the objectives of the proposed operation were vital to the agreed offensive policy and that the means available were likely to be adequate for the task in hand.

The planning of the enterprise, so far as the Canadian military forces were concerned, was directed by Gen. Roberts, the military force commander. The Canadian plans were concerned with the chief of combined operations (Vice-Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten) by Lt. Gen. H. D. G. Crear, general officer commanding a Canadian corps.

In all combined operations, there is a force commander for each service element involved. At Dieppe, while the military force commander, as already stated, was Gen. Roberts, the naval force commander was Capt. J. Hughes-Hallett, R.N., and the air force commander was Air Marshal T. Leigh-Mallory.

The Canadian military force involved was composed basically of large elements of two brigades of the 2nd Canadian Division, commanded by Brigadiers W. W. Southam (of Toronto), and S. Lett (of Vancouver), and a battalion of the 1st Canadian Army Tank Brigade. The Canadian army troops engaged comprised about 5,000 all ranks. In addition, detachments of all arms and services played essential parts in the operation.

Units of the 2nd Canadian Division were chosen because, although these troops had been in the United Kingdom since 1940, they had had no opportunities for active employment such as had fallen to troops of the 1st Canadian Division in France in June of 1940 and in the expedition to Spitzbergen in 1941.

The 1st Canadian Army Tank Brigade was the first Canadian armored formation to arrive in the United Kingdom, which it reached in June, 1941.

All the troops chosen for the enterprise were in a high state of general training, apart from the additional and special training which they received for this operation.

In addition to the Canadian forces, the military units employed included the 3rd, 4th and Royal Marine "A" commandos (special service brigade troops), as well as small detachments of United States Rangers and Fighting French troops.

The naval force participating included no vessels larger than destroyers and was composed primarily of various types of landing craft and support craft. In addition to vessels of the Royal Navy the force included a Polish destroyer and some fighting French Chasseurs.

The air force consisted of units from all operational commands of the Royal Air Force, from the Royal Canadian Air Force, the United States Army Air Force, the Royal New Zealand Air Force, and Polish, Czech, Norwegian, Belgian and Fighting French squadrons.

This operation was most carefully prepared in advance in every detail. The officers charged with planning the operation had at their disposal a great mass of information relating to the Dieppe area collected from many sources. The proposed operation was checked on a large-scale model of the area to be raided, and when the plans were completed a most thorough understanding had been established between the three services.

The forces to be employed in the enterprise were subjected to an intensive special program of combined operations training. While details of this special training cannot be given, it is possible to state that the Canadian military units chosen to participate were trained on suitable terrain within the United Kingdom where conditions could be considered to approximate to those in which the operation was to be conducted.

Troop Movements Well Concealed

Most careful precautions were taken for the maintenance of secrecy. Special means were used to conceal the movement of troops. Thanks to the precautions taken, it is believed that the enemy, in spite of the size of the force involved and the necessary magnitude of the preparations, had no indication that a specific operation against the Dieppe area was projected.

However, in consequence of our avowed aggressive policy, he had been strengthening his position on the French coast generally, and during the raid it became clear that the enemy had recently brought additional troops and guns into the Dieppe area.

This appears to have been done as part of a general policy of reinforcement of coastal areas. The Germans on the French coast were therefore in what may be called a state of general alert.

Topography of Dieppe area and operation plan: The town of Dieppe lies at the mouth of the River D'Arques, which provides a fairly spacious harbor lying to the south and east of the town. East of the river and harbor is a lofty headland overlooking the town and a similar headland lies immediately to the west.

On a great part of the coast in this vicinity cliffs make a landing from the sea virtually impossible, but there are areas of low ground providing avenues to the interior in the vicinity of Puits, a little more than a mile to the east of the river, and Pourville, situated at the mouth of the River Scie, about a mile and a half west of the town.

Seawall Equipped With Barbed Wire

The beach itself is suitable for landing operations, but the approach to the town is obstructed by a seawall which the Germans had turned into a more formidable obstacle by the use of heavy barbed wire, while the beach is also commanded by the headlands on either side.

The plan for the operation provided that assaults should be delivered by special service brigade troops against enemy coastal batteries at Varengeville, roughly five miles west of Dieppe, and Berneval, roughly six miles east of the town. The capture or disablement of the enemy guns at these points was considered necessary to the safety of our naval vessels offshore and the successful execution of the landing operations closer to the town.

DIEPPE—Scene of Canadian heroism and testing ground for 1942-1943 Allied invasion methods.

Simultaneously with the special service brigade attacks at these places, Canadian forces were to land at Pourville and Puits. The troops landed at Puits were to secure the headland east of Dieppe, from which the enemy would otherwise be in a position to menace landings attempted on the beach in front of the town itself.

The main attack was to be delivered against the front of the town, following a naval and air bombardment. Heavy tanks were to be employed in this attack in support of the Canadian infantry.

The need for knowledge and experience concerning the transport and landings of tanks was fundamental to the operational plan. The tanks once ashore, it was of course hoped to re-embark them if conditions were favorable. Orders were given, however, that tanks were to be disabled and left behind if it were a choice of re-embarking men or machines.

As the operation began, the French population were apprised by radio that it was definitely not an invasion but a raid, and were advised to remain quiet.

The successful crossing of the Channel by the force of naval vessels employed in the operation, which were preceded by minesweepers clearing the way, was a remarkable achievement and was accomplished almost wholly without the knowledge of the enemy.

Commanders Went On First Ship

The military and naval force commanders, Gen. Roberts and Capt. Hughes-Hallett, insisted on being aboard the first vessel to venture into these dangerous waters.

Subsequently this same vessel with the two force commanders aboard was the last to leave French waters.

The almost complete achievement of surprise during the Channel crossing was marred by one mishap.

At 3.30 in the morning the landing craft carrying No. 3 commando encountered five or six enemy armed vessels which were acting as escort to a tanker. The presence of this tanker is itself important evidence that the enemy was not expecting an operation on our part.

A minor naval engagement resulted and orders were given to the landing craft to scatter to avoid the fire of the enemy armed trawlers. Escorting Royal Navy gunboats succeeded in sinking one armed trawler and reports indicate that a second was probably destroyed.

The remaining enemy craft retreated rapidly up the coast and were not seen again during the operation.

This unfortunate incident may have afforded the German troops holding the defences which were the objective on the left flank warning of the approach of our force. Whether this was the case or not, the encounter had the effect of preventing the larger part of No. 3 commando from landing in the Berneval area which was its objective.

A small detachment of this unit did, however, succeed in reaching the objective, and the officer in command employed his handful of men to such good advantage in mortar fire and sniping as to interfere with the fire of the battery.

At Varengeville, on the opposite flank, the operation proceeded according to plan. Here No. 4 commando landed successfully, carried the enemy battery which was their objective, captured prisoners, destroyed the guns and their ammunition dumps and subsequently withdrew on schedule. A small group of United States Rangers accompanied this special service bridge unit.

Landed at Puits In Daylight

The encounter with the tanker and her escort had an adverse effect on the attack against the beach at Puits, delivered by the Royal Regiment of Canada, commanded by Lt. Col. D. E. Catto (of Toronto). This unit had been scheduled to land at 4.50 a.m.; but, turning from this course to avoid the naval engagement, the craft carrying this unit landed about 20 minutes late.

As a result, instead of reaching shore in the twilight hour considered most suitable for such an operation, they "touched down" in broad daylight. The enemy garrison at this point were manning formidable prepared defences, were well provided with machine guns and mortars, and were on the alert.

In consequence the Royal Regiment came under fire before landing and under very intense fire at the moment of touching the beach.

Although the troops rushed to the attack through a deadly cross-fire with the utmost gallantry, the regiment suffered extremely heavy casualties and only a temporary lodgement was obtained.

The consequence was that the headland immediately east of Dieppe was not cleared, and this affected the success of the landings on the main beaches.

At Pourville, on the other flank, a much greater degree of surprise was obtained. Here the South Saskatchewan Regiment, commanded by Lt. Col. C. C. I. Merritt (of Vancouver), landed with comparatively little initial opposition and captured their first objectives, taking a number of prisoners and clearing enemy positions.

and east of the beaches, and also from artillery sited under cover of the first line of buildings.

The first wave of tanks was landed successfully, and most valuable knowledge was gained as a result; but they came under direct fire as soon as they came off the landing craft, and while some immediately got on to the boulevard in front of the town and penetrated farther, others did not get off the beach.

Unable to Breach Seawall Fully

The engineers, charged with the particularly perilous and difficult task of carrying on assault demolitions in the face of heavy fire, did their work most gallantly. They were, however, unable fully to breach the seawall, and some of the tanks were unable to cross it.

Although a number of these were soon immobilized by damage, their crew continued to fight their guns with the most intrepid courage, engaging the batteries which were firing on the beaches and on the craft offshore.

About one hour after the first landing at this point, information received indicated that the beach was sufficiently cleared to permit the landing of the floating reserve. In consequence the Fusiliers Mont-Royal, commanded by Lt. Col. D. Menard (of Montreal), were ordered to land and to establish themselves on the beach and on the edge of the town of Dieppe.

The Royal Hamilton Light Infantry, attacking with great dash, had succeeded in capturing the casino, which was a prominent feature on the front of the town and was most heavily fortified. Strong road blocks across the heads of the streets leading into the town, and the heavy fire brought to bear from the houses facing the esplanade and beach, were obstacles to further progress.

Nevertheless, small parties of various units fought their way into the town and penetrated for some distance at a number of points.

On the eastern section of the beach in front of the town the advance of the Essex Scottish was hindered by the enemy's heavy wire obstacles which were covered by extremely heavy fire. The men of this unit, advancing with great courage to close with the enemy, were exposed to heavy fire from enemy mortars and suffered very numerous casualties.

Withdrawal following a raid of this sort is always a most difficult and dangerous operation; and in this instance it was especially so as the enemy had succeeded in bringing into action a number of mobile batteries, mortars and additional infantry.

Navy Gallant In Withdrawal

Although this enabled him to organize very heavy fire on both the beaches and the sea approaches, the ships and craft lying off Dieppe, in spite of excellent fighter cover, suffered sporadic attacks by dive-bombers, the navy most gallantly went into the beaches again and again to take off the troops, and officers and other ranks of the military force ashore performed many acts of gallantry in carrying wounded men to the landing craft.

During this phase, destroyers closed the beaches almost to the point of grounding, in order to support the re-embarkation by fire and to pick up survivors.

The expedition returned to England under an umbrella of air force fighter cover which prevented any serious interference by enemy aircraft. In England, dispersal arrangements were most efficiently organized by the Canadian headquarters concerned, and all returning officers and men were given hot food on arrival. The wounded were immediately dispatched to hospital and the remainder were returned to their unit areas.

The splendid assistance given by the Royal Navy has already been referred to. No terms could be too warm to describe it. There are on file statements by many members of the Canadian military forces, from private soldiers upwards, which testify to their deep understanding and most grateful appreciation of the manner in which the naval forces ran all risks to assist the troops.

Air cover and bombing were likewise magnificent, and drew equally warm tributes from the troops and from the navy.

Throughout the operation, both the air force and the navy provided smoke screens at the times and places where they were required which greatly reduced casualties to ships and personnel.

The distinguished part played in these operations by both Canadian sailors and Canadian airmen has excited the warmest appreciation on the part of the Canadian army. Considerable numbers of Canadian naval officers and ratings were engaged on board the naval vessels; one flotilla of landing craft was almost entirely manned by Canadian naval personnel.

Numerous cases of gallantry on the part of such personnel were recorded. At one point, light craft ventured into extremely heavy fire to rescue men of the Royal Regiment of Canada, who were clinging to the bottom of an overturned landing craft close to the shore.

Such deeds as these will long be remembered.

It has already been made clear that comparatively little can be said at present concerning the results of the raid. The operation is still being most carefully studied with a view to extracting from it every possible lesson which may assist us in future operations and the value of the experience gained at Dieppe will appear only in the future course of the war.

At the present time, no public analysis of the lessons learned is possible without giving assistance to the enemy. Certain points of importance can, however, be made here.

A large naval force crossed the Channel and approached the French coast. Protected by powerful air support, it remained off that coast for many hours, with the loss of but one destroyer and a number of small landing craft. This was a significant achievement.

Although Dieppe was a very strong place, military forces were landed on the enemy-occupied beaches, and heavy tanks in large numbers were transported across the Channel and successfully landed. The importance of this has already been referred to.

It can be stated that the organization of combined command worked out in such detail in addition to the Canadian military forces engaged, and their determination to capture their objectives at whatever cost, were beyond all praise.

Although they came under the heaviest forms of artillery, mortar and machine gun fire, and confronted situations comparable to the most dangerous tasks assigned to troops in the last war, there was not the slightest hesitation, and all ranks evinced the keenest desire to come to grips with the enemy.

Literally hundreds of documents relating to this hazardous operation now have been examined. In not one of these is mentioned the slightest suggestion that so much as one man of the Canadian army failed in his duty.

Where all were brave, it is difficult and perhaps invidious to quote individual cases of gallantry, but two such instances are mentioned here merely as examples of the manner in which Canadian officers and men maintained the traditions of the Canadian army and the honor of their country.

Merritt, Hickson Win Distinction

Lt. Col. C. C. I. Merritt of the South Saskatchewan Regiment acted with most distinguished gallantry throughout the operation. When his battalion was held up by very hot fire at a bridge on which many men had fallen, Col. Merritt walked back and forth across the bridge, waving his helmet and calling "See, there is no danger here." He then led his men across and cleared the commanding enemy positions on the other side.

After many acts of bravery during the day, including leading detachments against strongly defended road blocks, personally disposing of a sniper, and organizing and leading parties for the destruction of enemy machine gun posts which were harassing his men, this most gallant officer was last seen collecting automatic weapons and organizing a defensive position to cover the withdrawal of the last parties of his unit from the beach.

Lance-Sergeant G. E. Hickson of the 7th Field Company, Royal Canadian Engineers, was assigned to a demolition task in the town and landed with the Royal Hamilton Light Infantry. As fire was too heavy to move directly to his objective, he attached himself to an infantry platoon, and when this platoon's officer and senior N.C.O.'s were put out of action, took command and led them to the Casino.

Here he used an explosive charge to enter through the walls and reached a large concrete gun emplacement. He blew in the steel door of the emplacement with another charge, killing the gun crew, and subsequently destroyed the six-inch naval gun in the emplacement as well as two machine guns.

He then reorganized the remaining men of the platoon and in the face of heavy enemy opposition led them into the town as far as the Church of St. Remy. Only when he found his party alone and unsupported did he withdraw it to the Casino. Subsequently he was among the last men to be evacuated from the beach.

Such deeds as these will long be remembered.

It has already been made clear that comparatively little can be said at present concerning the results of the raid. The operation is still being most carefully studied with a view to extracting from it every possible lesson which may assist us in future operations and the value of the experience gained at Dieppe will appear only in the future course of the war.

Lt. Col. Merritt Prisoner

BELLEVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Lt. Col. Cecil C. I. Merritt, officer commanding the South Saskatchewan Regiment, previously reported missing after the Battle of Dieppe, is now a prisoner of war in Germany, his wife was informed today.

Col. Merritt comes from Vancouver and his wife, the former Miss Grace Bone, resides in Belleville with her two children.

vance of the operation functioned most admirably. The three services worked together in perfect co-operation, and in this respect the result of the operation has been to afford complete confidence in the effective co-ordination of the efforts of the services in large combined operations.

A special point concerning the air aspect of the operations may be made.

This extensive raid compelled the enemy to concentrate air squadrons from many distant points and to commit a large force to action. Even night fighters, night bombers and training squadrons were thrown into the fight.

This gave the R.A.F. a valuable opportunity, and in the intense air fighting over Dieppe the German air force suffered losses in aircraft amounting to a very serious strategic reverse.

As for the more limited and local objectives of the raid, enemy batteries and a radio-location station were destroyed; heavy casualties were inflicted upon the enemy and prisoners of war were brought back; and one and possibly two armed vessels were sunk.

Operations Bound To Be Very Costly

For the lessons learned and the advantages gained the forces engaged, and particularly the land forces, paid a very heavy price. The history of similar operations in the past serves to indicate that heavy losses are to be expected in amphibious operations of this type directed against a fortified coastline held by a determined and alert enemy.

At Dieppe the losses suffered were probably due in part to the misfortune of the chance encounter with the escorted German tanker. Such small circumstances are often important in operations of this kind.

The Canadian military units engaged in the Dieppe operation gained combat experience which will be of great value to them in future operations. The troops have returned from the enterprise with added confidence in themselves and, in particular, in the leadership of their officers and N.C.O.'s, which from start to finish was of the very highest order.

All ranks of the units concerned, and especially those which have suffered most heavily, are anxious for another opportunity of contact with the enemy which will enable them to exact from him a further reckoning for the losses which they have suffered on this occasion.

The heroism both of those who fell and those who returned will be a source of future inspiration to all ranks of the Canadian army.

A 'Shaky Do'

WITH THE R.C.A.F. IN ENGLAND (CP)—Within a couple of hours P.O. George (Scrammy) McGladery of Chemainus, B.C., and P.O. Roy Morrison of Vancouver were going out to drop 1,000-pound souvenirs on Duisburg. But in the meantime they wanted to tell about the "shaky do" in which a companion, P.O. Art (Cherub) Morledge of Lloydminster, Sask., figured a couple of nights before.

Morledge was navigator of a bomber skippered by Sgt. Pilot Syd Stowe of Vancouver. Over Bremen, the target, they were caught in a cone of searchlights and peppered with flak. Again over north Germany they were caught in the same way. Both engines went out, 150 miles from home. They were down to 500 feet when the starboard motor picked up again. They came home on that, the ship's body pretty well shot up. One of those searchlight cones had held them for 30 minutes, while they dropped from 18,000 to 3,000 feet. That's a shaky do.

VICTORIA golf devotees are going to get an opportunity to watch Ben Hogan in action. The mighty mite of the links will display his wares here Sunday afternoon in an 18-hole exhibition over the sporty Oak Bay links, partnered with Phil Taylor, against those two Vancouver professional stars, Stan Leonard and Freddy Wood. Victoria gets a break in securing the Sunday date.

Recognized as the top flight pro in North America today, Hogan recently copped the Hale America Open, which this year replaced the United States Open as the most important tournament south of the border. An idea of the ability of the little Texan is seen by the fact that he has been the leading money winner for the last three successive years and has taken first money in 25 Professional Golfers' Association-sponsored tournaments. The other day in Seattle Hogan uncorked a blistering 66 which gave him and his partner, Jack Westland, a one-sided victory over Harry Givan and Gordon Richards.

When presiding Steward W. J. McKeon disqualified Ronrico at the Willows track Wednesday it was a distinct shock to your correspondent that the action resulted in absolutely no squawking on the part of the public. Even though the boy posted Ronrico's number as the winner and then immediately took it down, to be replaced by that of Flying Rhythm, there was not a peep out of the 3,000 odd fans. Of course we must admit Jockey Ray Nielsen's action in grabbing Streakworth was so evident it was clearly visible to the naked eye. Talking to several punters who held tickets on Ronrico, they all were of the opinion the action taken was just and proper.

There's an act at the Willows track worthy of mention in Bob Ripley's book. We refer to the twin jockeys, George and Danny Godley. Alike as the proverbial two peas in a pod, the pair are the only twin jockeys campaigning on North America tracks.

While riding on the prairies this year the brothers were the worry warts of the clerk of scales at every track. When one of them jumped onto the scales the clerk was never sure just which twin he was weighing. The boys produced many a laugh at the expense of the officials.

The other day in making reference to the recent city championship victory of the Douglas Tire softball team, we mentioned that, in our opinion, the tiremen were the first B section winners to take the honors. Apparently that was not so as Maury Hornsby, former softballer, writer as follows:

"If you look back in your files to about 1938 you will see where the Hollywood club B representatives defeated the Painter's Bruins in a best two-out-of-three series that went the limit."

Thanks, Maury, for putting us straight.

Dodgers in Bad Spot

Three Games Behind

From what's been going on here lately it no longer is a question of St. Louis Cardinals winning but Brooklyn's Dodgers losing the National League flag. If ever a club looked as though it had folded up, the Dodgers from Flatbush did just that Thursday in dropping a 3 to 2 decision to Pittsburgh Pirates for their sixth setback in seven games.

And what made the Bums seem all the more pathetic was the way the Cards kept right on fighting in Boston and finally won out 6 to 4 with a five-run blast in the ninth inning to go three games in front in the pennant parade.

At the same instant as the guys from St. Louis were finally getting to Al Javery—after being muffed with five hits for eight frames—three Dodgers were walking meekly up to the plate for their ninth-inning "licks" and being retired in order with no more fight than you'll find in a dead chicken.

What's more, needing only one run to tie, "Leo the Lip" Durocher hardly looked the part of the great master mind in letting pitcher May Maxon bat for himself to start off the inning. Up to that point, Max hadn't hit a ball out of the infield all afternoon, and he kept his record intact by popping to the catcher.

ONE OF GREATEST FIGHTS

The net result of these proceedings was to put the Cards in a spot where only a major catastrophe can keep the Redbirds out of the championship, climaxing one of the sturdiest uphill fights in years. For not only are they three games in front with only eight to go, but two of these games are in the important "losing side" in the records. At the moment, as the Cards head west to pick up against the Cubs Saturday and the Dodgers tangle with the Phillies today, here is the picture:

With the hot National League shindig still just about the whole show, the chief supporting features of the day saw New York Yankees win their 100th ball game to break a record they already had in the books and Tex Hughson join the select "20-game-winners" pitching set. Joe DiMaggio's 20th homer of Horse racing made its contribution to the Kinsmen Club's Milk for Britain Fund Thursday afternoon when the entire gate receipts for the afternoon's program at the Willows track were donated to the cause. In the above picture Sam Randall, president of the Vancouver Thoroughbred Association, right, hands a check for $622 to Bob Shanks of the Kinsmen Club. Between the two, stands Mata Hari, famous calf mascot of the local club, who contributed its share to the cause by collecting $57, for a grand total of $679. As an added attraction for the racing fans a match race was staged between Laddie, owned by Mrs. H. Jutson-Fisher, and ridden by Shanks, and Min Tee, owned and ridden by Keith Dorman. Laddie was an easy winner over the three furlongs. Randall officiated as starter. Russel Park of the Kinsmen Club presented Augie Sylvester, rider of Streakworth, winner of the Kinsmen Club Handicap, with a War Savings Certificate.

Willows Races

Three horses broke down during or at the end of races at the Willows Thursday, two price records were set and only two favorites managed to catch the judges' eyes. Meanwhile, the approximate odds board went into a wing-ding before the fifth race and fooled everyone.

"Queer" is the word for the afternoon's racing. Outstanding feature was the stunning upset of a one-to-four favorite in the fifth race conditioned for maidens of three years old and up at six furlongs 30 yards, with a claiming price of $700.

It was in this affair that the two-price records for the season to date were established. Admittedly the sort of race in which anything can happen, no one was quite prepared for the shock of seeing the heavily odds-on favorite amble last but one from the gate and finish fourth, her jockey, Augie Sylvester, making only a show of an effort to get her better placed.

The race was won by Will Hudson with Rose Again second. The winner, half-brother to Somer's Heir, incidentally was shown on the odds board as closing at 16½ to 1. He paid off at 20 to 1, straight, $15 to $2 for place and $5.15 to show. Rose Again, a five-year-old daughter of the Kamloops pride, Dolan, was second. She had been registered at 90 to 1 and paid off at $22.40 to place and $11.80 to show. Biggest shock was the one-two price which might well have run up to a $1,000 or more. It was actually $188.15. Trapida paid $8.15 to show.

Will Attend Game

Adding a further note of color at an already first class program, it was announced today the Victoria girls' drill team under Capt. Norman Foster would appear at Sunday's challenge softball game between the police and firemen. Game will be played at the Athletic Park, starting at 3, under the auspices of the Victoria Drugists' Association in connection with their war savings stamps drive.

To provide suitable music for the occasion the band of the Rocky Mountain Rangers will be in attendance, starting at 2:30.

According to reports the two clubs have been engaging in serious "practices," and both report their teams in tip-top condition for the fracas.

Ken Black Holds Hogan All Even

VANCOUVER (CP) — Ben Hogan, the dapper little Texan noted as golf's most consistent performer for the last three years, and Ken Black, Vancouver amateur, ended an 18-hole exhibition match here Thursday all even.

Receipts from the match, one of two British Columbia appearances Hogan has slated for his Pacific Northwest tour, will go to the R.C.A.F. benevolent fund.

Hogan shot brilliant golf for the first 12 holes when he was six under par, but slipped a bit on the last six and wound up with a mere 69, three under perfect figures for the Shaughnessy Club course.

Black was steady throughout and finished with a 70.

SAANICH RIFLE CLUB
Annual meeting of the Saanich Rifle Club was held in the Badminton Hall Wednesday, when it was announced the range will be open on Mondays and Wednesdays at 8, starting Sept. 21. Anyone wishing to join can apply either at the range or write to the secretary, Brentwood P.O.

Two Price Records

R. Nelson on Ronrico is alleged to have hooked her rider or saddle-cloth, brought solace to owner Dave Diamond by taking the sixth and feature race from wire to wire without once looking back. Given a perfect ride by Sylvester, the grandson of the English Derby winner Papyrus, withstood repeated challenge from Sunny Park, who finished third, and Patage, to win with her ears pricked up. Ascot Jane came from the clouds in the stretch to take second.

The race, a $1,000 claiming event, was named the Kinsmen's Handicap in honor of the service club sponsoring the Milk for Britain movement, to which the day's gate receipts were donated.

Lady Aurelius broke down badly in the running of the third race, pulled up dead lame and was led off on three legs. The race was truly run, however. Silumo, second favorite at 5 to 2, coming from behind in a manner worthy of her sire, Simony, to win going away.

Other breakdowns during the afternoon included Our Haven, installed favorite in the fourth race, who aggravated an old leg injury and who, according to her owner, D. Paterson of Vancouver, will not run again this year. The race was taken by Ancient Rites after a thrilling stretch duel with Jelsweep, a photo being needed to separate them at the wire. Ancient Rites paid a respectable $12.70 to win. Ynomis was third after making up much ground. Briareus was pulled up in the back stretch in the last race and was not brought back to the grandstand.

Silumo was coupled with Nancy's Beau in the second race the day before when Jockey

Solons Cling To Flag Hopes

Sacramento, which has been discounted more than once as a serious menace to Los Angeles' Coast League championship hopes, fooled the dopesters again by remaining as a contender today.

The Angels need only one more game to clinch the pennant. That was all they needed Thursday, but the Senators defeated them 5 to 4 in a desperate game in which both sides brought up their home run hitters.

The game and the championship appeared all wrapped up for Los Angeles, which held a 4 to 1 lead at the end of its half of the eighth. Centrefielder Peanut Lowrey had uncorked a home run in the sixth which brought in one ahead of him.

Then Buster Adams and Ray Mueller homered for Sacramento in the last half of the eighth, bringing in enough runs to tie the score. Second baseman Roy Hughes, trying for a double play, threw wild and was responsible for the winning run in the ninth.

San Francisco duplicated Sacramento's feat by trouncing San Diego 6 to 0 and robbing the Padres of the one game they needed to clinch an upper division spot for the Shaughnessy playoffs.

Seattle ended its losing streak at Oakland by beating the Aorns 5 to 0 and Hollywood used seven hits, one fewer than the Beavers obtained, to defeat Portland 6 to 1.

$33.05 for $2. The second quinnella in the seventh brought cheers from the crowd when Kaywood, first, and Acero, second, romped home in that order to pay off at $18.90. Kaywood was the second favorite of the day and the second winner for Jockey Sylvester. He paid $5.70. Selfish Joss made the show slot.

Wavelength ran a stout race in the curtain-raiser, catching the nod from Happy Returns and Lady Do in that order to yield $11 for a $2 investment.

Crowd and mutual play were both satisfactory, topping last year's returns for the corresponding day.

Doug Fletcher President; Open Oct. 26

Organization of the Vancouver Island Senior Hockey League was accomplished at a meeting in Victoria Thursday night. In attendance were delegates from Nanaimo, Victoria Machinery Depot, Navy, Army and R.C.A.F.

Although five teams were represented the definite set-up of the new circuit is not definite. Navy and R.C.A.F. are certain starters. Whether or not the V.M.D. enters a club in the league will be determined on the shipyarders agreeing to accept terms with H.B. Olson, president of the Willows Arena, over the cut of the gate receipts. At Thursday's meeting the V.M.D. representative stated the proposed split would not be acceptable and, unless altered, they would not enter the league. As far as the Army club was concerned their delegate asked time to report back to his superiors before a definite answer was given. Navy and R.C.A.F. both agreed to the Arena terms and are definite entries along with Nanaimo.

Doug Fletcher, well-known sports follower, and a former president of the Uplands Golf Club, was elected first president of the new league. Ivan Temole, who last year managed the Victoria Bapcos in the Intercity League, will handle the duties of secretary, with Eric Cox as treasurer.

Under present plans games will be played in Victoria on Monday and Friday nights with

Saturday the playing night in Nanaimo.

EARLY OPENING
A proposed schedule would give each team 12 home games with the opening in Victoria tentatively set for Oct. 26. First home game for Nanaimo would be five days later.

Olson informed the meeting there would be ice available at the Willows around Oct. 1, which would give the clubs plenty of time to get into condition for the early opening. The schedule would carry the clubs into February.

Definite decision from the Army and V.M.D. clubs must be made to President Fletcher by Sunday night and it is likely another meeting of the league will be held next week to iron out matters in preparation for the opening.

Soon as the make-up of the league is definite the executive will draw up a schedule which will be submitted to the clubs for their approval.

Quite a bit of discussion took place over the matter of referees and it was finally decided to have each club submit names of suitable men to the executive. Any former referees in the city interested in officiating are asked to contact President Fletcher.

Delegates to the meeting included: Bill Phillips, Dave McKay of Nanaimo; Alderman Jamieson of Ladysmith; Bus Algar and Elmer Kreller, representing the Army; Leo Attwell and Joe Veach, representing the V.M.D.; F.Lt. C. G. Hickman and Sgt. B. J. Foulis of the R.C.A.F., and Surgeon-Commander Currie and P.O. Bob Dewhurst of the Navy.

Plan Playgrounds For Next Summer

The first summer playground program conducted in Oak Bay was successful, the playground committee told a public meeting at the Oak Bay Municipal Hall Thursday night. Tentative plans were made to conduct a similar program next summer.

Mrs. H. A. Beckwith, secretary of the committee, reported 383 children took advantage of the program last summer and 343 were registered at Willows Park. The instruction was offered in the following: Folk dancing, drama, clay modeling, sketching, first aid, tumbling, boxing, rug-making, nature study, swimming, story telling, knitting, signaling, floral arrangement and softball, football and volleyball.

The committee was fortunate in having 55 voluntary instructors, Mrs. Beckwith said. Cost of the program was $221.41.

T. S. Whittemore, chairman, outlined the history of the playground movement in Oak Bay and read the financial statement.

PLAN FOR NEXT SUMMER
The committee went on record as favoring a similar plan for next summer and expressed the wish that a suitable park could be found south of Oak Bay Avenue to extend the playground program to children living in south Oak Bay.

The meeting was told that while older children living in south Oak Bay took advantage of the program conducted at the Willows Park last summer, younger children were prohibited because of the distance they would have had to travel.

A vote of thanks to the committee for the way it had made the playground plan function was expressed by the meeting and the committee was asked to stay

Hundreds Peel Cascara Bark

Hundreds of British Columbians, during the last few months have gone into the woods to harvest cascara bark, now at a premium, for its valuable medicinal properties.

"We expect there has been considerable activity in this regard, but we have no exact figures yet," an official of the B.C. forestry department said today.

From Duncan comes the report that 20 tons of dry cascara bark, worth $8,000, have been harvested in the Cowichan district this season.

Peelers this year, thanks to instructions from forestry officials, have made a better job of stripping the trees. They have cut the trees, instead of peeling them and leaving them to die. When they are cut new stems grow from the root and so conservation takes place.

There has been considerable shortage of hemlock and spruce in recent months. From these trees pulp and paper are made and some of the pulp mills have been within eight hours of shutting down.

"If logging continues, the pulp mills should be all right; there is always a certain amount of pulp species with fir," the official said.

"Our forest production will be down this year; we can't keep it up because of shortage of labor and delays in securing equipment."

Seven motorists were each fined $250 in city police court today for infractions of parking regulations.

Eric D. Craig and Mrs. Alexander McGavin were each fined $35, and had their drivers' licenses suspended for two months in Saanich Police Court Thursday afternoon on charges of driving in a manner dangerous to the public.

New Ottawa College Follows Victoria

Ottawa has organized Carlton College, along the lines of Victoria College here to give two years university arts and science work, said J. W. Gibson, M.A., former Victorian, who is here from Ottawa attending the Canada-Newfoundland educationists' convention.

Mr. Gibson was former director of high school correspondence in the British Columbia education department and has been loaned by B.C. to be national director of correspondence education for the Canadian Legion War Services.

"Carlton College has been established chiefly to provide higher education facilities to the young people who have crowded into Ottawa on government work," Mr. Gibson said. "To make it possible for them to attend, all its courses are given during the evenings. Dr. Tivy, former president of the University of Alberta and later of the Dominion Research Council, is president of the new college. The lecturers include Prof. Henry Angus, formerly of U.B.C. in economics, and Dr. James Gibson of the state department in history."

Want Act Change On Pinball Games

Victoria's resolution calling for support in seeking amendment of the Municipal Act to give municipalities complete control over pinball games and slot machines, was endorsed by the Union of B.C. Municipalities at their Kamloops convention, Alderman J. A. Worthington, first of the Victoria delegates to return, said today.

The proposed amendment would give the municipalities the same powers as those exercised by Vancouver under its special charter in respect to pinball games. The powers would permit the city to prohibit operation of the machines entirely if such a course seemed desirable.

When the question came before the convention, it was linked with an earlier city resolution seeking to prevent young people under 18 from playing the games. Announcement of passage of that resolution was carried in the convention story.

He has taken a prominent part in amateur dramatics with the Victoria Little Theatre Club.

Postmen Receive Service Medals

W. F. Hislop, 2481—Willows Road, has been awarded the Imperial Service Medal for his services as a letter carrier with the Victoria post office, it was announced today in the London (Eng.) Gazette.

Other Victorians to receive the medal were J. W. Pitney, who worked as a letter carrier in Victoria from April 16, 1912, to Jan. 29, 1942, and who is now living at Cobble Hill, and A. R. Christison, 496 Obed Avenue. Mr. Christison, however, never worked at the Victoria post office.

Other awards to employees of the post office went to Frank Buckley and James Keith, letter carriers of Vancouver and Frank Evenett, letter carrier of Hollywood, B.C.

Mr. Hislop was employed by the post office here from Feb. 28, 1914, to Dec. 1, 1941. The Uplands district has been his permanent "beat" and during his 28 years of service Mr. Hislop estimated he walked a greater distance than his car has or ever will travel. He has walked approximately 60,000 miles with his mail bag on his shoulder.

12 UPLANDS HOMES
Today Mr. Hislop recalled conditions when he started as a letter carrier. He said there were only 12 houses in the Uplands in 1914. Mr. Hislop's district started at Foul Bay Road and went along the shore to the Uplands.

As the district became more thickly populated, Mr. Hislop's beat was made smaller so that today there are four or five carriers for the area Mr. Hislop used to cover.

During his years as postman, Mr. Hislop made friends with many of the citizens of his district. He said he often served as walking encyclopedia and family adviser.

Frequently asked for advice by householders who had suffered calamity through injury or sickness of the breadwinner, Mr. Hislop's "philosophy" was for them to arrange to pay the grocery first, for then the family could eat, and the doctor and hospital last.

FORMER PROSPECTOR

Before coming to Victoria, Mr. Hislop was a prospector in northern Ontario, and although he never struck a rich claim, he said he helped to open gold and cobalt mines in that district.

He served as a mechanic in Texas and England with the Royal Flying Corps during the last war.

Mr. Hislop says he cannot do much walking now since his heart gave out while he was a postman. He lives in retirement with his wife and daughter and devotes his time to gardening. Now and again he goes to the races, he said.

His son, Lance-Bombardier Walter R. C. Hislop, is serving with the Canadian Army.

To Build Shelters

VANCOUVER (CP)—The city council has decided to appropriate funds for establishment of underground shelters in Vancouver following receipt of a letter from W. C. Mainwaring, provincial A.R.P. chief, stating the Dominion government had agreed to provide half the operational costs of civilian protection in the city.

Wide Range In Valuation

Valuations ranging from $14,750 to $2,750 were placed on the old Peters home, Peters Street, Esquimalt, today as the Exchequer Court of Canada opened hearing of the expropriation case under Mr. Justice Robson in the Court House.

The property on Macaulay Plains has been taken over by the Dominion government as quarters for the C.W.A.C. and a price of $7,500 has been offered by the authorities to the Peters' estate.

Leslie Scott, building contractor, placed the highest valuation on the structure, stating replacement would cost that, but workmanship could not be duplicated today. It was not a house he would buy and would require another $2,500 to be placed in good repair, he said. If he wanted a house of that type he would be prepared to pay from $8,000 to $9,000 for it he said.

S. A. Haynes, real estate agent, placed a value of $10,000 on the whole property.

H. Peters, son of the man for whom the home was built, outlined the value of gardens and the orchard, and stated it had been his mother's wish that a member of the family should continue to live there. Under cross-examination by J. B. Clearhugh, K.C., counsel for the Dominion government, he said he had placed a value of $9,000 on the property for succession duty purposes, and admitted the will of his mother called for his tenancy there for one year, after which the premises should be sold and returns divided among the children.

Victor Leigh, contractor, placed the value of the home at $2,750. He had reached that figure in a survey for assessment purposes conducted in 1936.

G. A. O'Kell, city assessor, testified assessment on a property in the neighborhood had fallen from $16,200 to $12,000 in the last four years.

R. H. Shanks, real estate agent, stated there was no sales value to the property, and that 50 cents on the assessed dollar would be a good price. If the Peters heirs secured $7,500 for the property, surrounded by barracks, they could reinvest their money for a higher return than they could hope to get from the structure and grounds, he said.

He was still under examination at the luncheon recess.

Night School Courses Set

Night school courses, streamlined to meet war needs, will open at Victoria High, Central Junior High, Kingston Street and 1221 Langley, Oct. 1.

Registration will take place at the various schools on opening night. That course is being followed to avoid disappointment to students who might enroll in advance for classes which attract insufficient numbers to justify their existence. For that reason all intending to participate in night study this year are urged to be present on the first evening.

A competent staff was tentatively chosen by the educational committee of the city school board Thursday night. Appointments will not be made definite until confirmation has been secured from the other trustees. In some classes two instructors were suggested in the belief the popularity of the subjects would merit that number. Should registration fall below expectations and one class only be justified, the first named will be selected, George Anstey, director, indicated.

Certain subjects previously included in the curriculum have been dropped this year in the belief war conditions and attendant duties will absorb the time of those who might be interested solely in hobby activity. Emphasis has been placed on vocational studies and those courses which will assist the citizen in the solution of wartime domestic economic problems.

CLASS HOURS

In the majority of cases, classes will be conducted from 7.30 to 9.30 on the evenings listed.

Regulations call for enrollment of at least 12 students for any class. No fees will be collected unless that many attend. Fees are payable in advance and are not refunded. Men and women in one of the full time naval, military or air forces will be admitted to any class at half the usual charge. Cost of materials used in different classes must also be borne by the student.

At the present time, Mr. Anstey stated, war activities claim many would-be evening school students. Last year's attendance indicated insufficient demand for some of the usual courses. These are not being offered this year. Other courses have been withdrawn because the equipment is in use for training personnel of the armed forces and still others because similar courses are being offered by the government under the War Emergency Training program. Should the demand warrant it, any of the omitted classes, for which the board has facilities, will be reopened.

All school holidays will be observed by the night school, with provision made to hold extra classes on other evenings.

Further details may be secured from Mr. Anstey at the school board office, City Hall, from 4 to 5 in the afternoon until the school starts.

Turtles May Help Beef Shortage

Victorians, who because of the beef shortage do not get their favorite steaks for dinner, may soon be indulging in turtle steaks.

According to reports from Astoria, Ore., 1,000-pound sea-going leatherback turtles, the largest variety known, have been sighted off the Pacific coast from California to Vancouver Island. Astorians had their first taste of turtle steaks early this week after Capt. Clifton Christiansen brought one into port.

Although the turtle captured this week was reported to have been the first leatherback taken off the Oregon coast, Victoria fishermen reported it is not unusual to sight the big leatherback turtles at sea off the Vancouver Island coast.

Marine scientists here, however, were skeptical that Mr. Turtle would be of much assistance in relieving the beef shortage. They report that while a few leatherbacks may wander north to this latitude now and again, they prefer warmer climes.

It would be unusual, they said, if many leatherback turtles were taken off the B.C. coast.

Sets Two World Pacing Records

READING, Pa. (AP)—Breaking two world records, Little Pat, owned by the Biery Farms, Butler, Pa., raced to his sixth consecutive triumph in the $3000 free-for-all race, feature event of Thursday's grand circuit card at the Reading fair.

The nine-year-old son of Hollywood Bob turned in a 2:01½ performance in the final heat to set a world mark for pacing geldings on a half-mile track. This also completed the fastest three-heat race ever recorded for a half-mile track. Little Pat was clocked at 2:01½ for each of the first two miles.

In each of the starts, Charley Lacey was forced to bring the big gelding under the wire with a whip to hold off threats from Little Saratoga, winner in 1940 of the two-year-old pacing futurity over this same track. The Longacre Farm entry failed only by a head to nip its veteran rival in the last two heats.

'Y' Swimmers Win

The Victoria Y.M.C.A. swimmers took top honors at the annual swim gala between the "Y" and the V.A.S.C., held Wednesday night in the "Y" pool. They chalked up a total of 128 points against their opponents' 55.

Of the 21 events listed, the Flying Y natators captured 12 and tied in one. Winnifred Pritchard, senior star of the winning team, highlighted the evening with first places in the 100-yard freestyle and 60-yard backstroke. Alice Thompson, Y.M.C.A., took second place in each of the events.

In the 100-yard freestyle for senior men, Hugh Reston, "Y," took first place, with Bill Stanley, V.A.S.C., second. Hugh's time was 1.4.

Two medley relays opened the gala, with honors in both going to the ranks of the Y.M.C.A.

R.C.A.F. Will Not Use Two Grid Stars

TORONTO (CP)—Wing Cmdr. E. W. Kendrick, officer commanding the Eglington training school of the R.C.A.F., said here Thursday that there is "no chance" that either Tony Golab or Bobby Coulter would line up with the R.C.A.F. team in the Ontario Rugby Football Union.

"We'd like to have them, naturally," he said, "but there is no chance that either will play. Both are outside the jurisdiction of our command."

Both men are taking operational training, the wing commander said, "and it would be out of the question to halt that."

Ask That Liquor Be Rationed

The provincial W.C.T.U. at its convention in Vancouver unanimously passed the following resolution:

"That whereas, the federal government has rationed tea, coffee, sugar and gasoline, curtailed travel, prescribed clothing, in fact, almost all the necessities of life have been restricted. These limitations we accept without protest as patriotic citizens, in the interest of our war effort. We would therefore, respectfully demand, in an all-out war effort, that alcoholic beverages be at least given similar treatment, and that stringent restrictions on the manufacture and sale of such beverages be made immediately effective, as in the manner of action recently taken on tea and coffee."

The meeting also went on record as publicly expressing "our approval of wholesome films and our appreciation of the general improvement in the moral tone, and that we urge that the policy of eliminating scenes and suggestions which do not tend to foster good citizenship be steadily maintained."

The district president, Mrs. S. A. Cracknell, took the chair at the luncheon, when greetings were brought in by Canon Wilson on behalf of the Vancouver Ministerial Association; Miss Hillard of the Diocesan Board of W.A.; Local Council of Women; Woman's Missionary Society, Salvation Army, Baptist Women's Union, Presbyterian Women, and others.

Mrs. Margaret Wilkinson of Victoria ably responded to the greetings on behalf of the convention.

The Communion service was conducted by Dr. D. Teller, assisted by Mr. Huntly and Mr. Burton. The stirring address given by Dr. E. Paul stressed the why and how of temperance work and the great need for Christian citizenship and right personal living as a basis to W.C.T.U. work.

Mrs. Margaret Wilkinson of Victoria ably responded to the greetings on behalf of the convention.

Parents Told to Extend Golden Rule to Children

It would be a wholesome, spiritual exercise for parents now and then, to put themselves in their children's places and see how they would like to be treated by some domestic overlord the way they treat their youngsters. Very few mothers and fathers are intentionally unkind to their children, but many are brutal to them through sheer stupidity and thoughtlessness.

They have the idea that children are some sort of unclassified fauna with hides like a rhinoceros so thick that no barb can pierce them, and they have strange habits and tastes that make them enjoy being exhibited in public and having their peculiarities discussed in their presence, and that they don't mind being baited and teased and led to and disappointed.

They know perfectly well that they would commit mayhem upon the person of anyone who would point out their peculiarities to the gaping crowd, and would never forgive anyone who made them promises they did not even intend to keep. But they expect children to take it and like it, yet a child is the most sensitive creature on earth and the one most helpless and least capable of defending itself.

Why so many otherwise intelligent people, into whose hands God has mistakenly entrusted children, ignore this palpable fact, no one knows. Yet they do. It is the common custom, for instance, for grown-ups to discuss a child in his presence as freely as they would discuss a horse or a dog, apparently under the impression that little Johnny is a deaf idiot who doesn't understand what it is all about. But he does and it crucifies him when Aunt Sally comments that he looks small for his age and takes after his mother's family who were all runty, or when Uncle John remarks that he must be backward in his studies if he is only in the third grade.

PARENTS PERMIT TORTURE

Father and mother stand complacently by while this torture is going on and make no effort to stop it, yet imagine what father would do if anybody told him to his face that he was a miserable-looking little half-pint-size manikin. And what mother would say to anyone who dared even suggest that she looked like homely old Cousin Eliza would be a plenty.

There are even parents so calloused that they hold their children up as laughing stocks for the amusement of their guests. All of us have seen children writhe in agony while father set the dinner table in a roar by relating some blunder that Tommy had made or repeating some artless question that Dicky had asked. Worse still, we have known a mother to make a funny story about Mamie's shy confidence to her about the boy whose desk was next to hers at school. Once I even heard a mother read aloud her little girl's love letter to a guffawing crowd of grown-ups.

Now perhaps there are people with such an overgrown sense of humor that they enjoy a joke on themselves and are willing to be made to look ridiculous for the entertainment of their fellow creatures, but if there are any such, I have never met them. We like people to laugh with us, but not at us; and father would no more enjoy having his blunders dragged forth to make a Roman holiday for his acquaintances than little Jimmy does. Mother would be just as much stung by the quick as little Sally is by having her sacred confidences betrayed.

CARELESS ABOUT PROMISES

Most parents do not regard a promise to a child as binding. They will promise the children to take them to the movies or on a picnic on Saturday or to give them a bicycle or a doll, or whatever the childish heart is set on. Then when the time comes if they want to go on a party themselves or to spend the money on something they want they put the youngsters off regardless of the crushing disappointment they are inflicting.

Yet many a man, who has been defeated for some high office, or who has missed making a million by a drop in the market, has felt less disappointment than he did when his father went to play golf instead of taking him fishing as he had planned. Many a woman has shed fewer tears over the wreck of the dreams of her life than has the little girl whose mother forgot to bring her home the doll she promised her.

Childhood lives only in the present. It has no perspective on life and it has not learned the law of compensation which is the staff we lean on in our latter years.

So I urge parents to extend the Golden Rule to their children and treat them as they would like to be treated. As Josh Billings once said: "Train a child in the way he should go, and walk there yourself once in a while."

Fish Gets Free Rides From Sharks and Swordfish

In the days of wagons and carriages, many small boys used to ask the drivers to let them "hitch a ride." If given permission, they would hitch their carts to the wagons or carriages and would enjoy free passage.

In these days of motor cars, few children are foolish enough to hitch a little cart to an automobile, but there are some who hitch sleds to the backs of cars. That is a dangerous thing to do, and has brought on accidents.

In the ocean there are fish which hitch rides. Instead of traveling by their own power, they let a larger fish do the swimming.

I am thinking about fish of the remora family. They are found chiefly in the torrid zone, but they also live in the warmer parts of the North Atlantic and North Pacific.

The remora (pronounced rem-oh) is a small fish. Usually, when full grown it is less than a foot long.

Above the head of this fish is a disk with which it can fasten itself to smooth objects. Scientists say that the disk is a fin which has changed through the ages. Sharks are among the fish favored by this ocean "hitchhiker." After pressing its disk to the lower part of a shark's body it is ready for a long, fast ride.

Swordfish are among the other large fish which give rides to the remora. Perhaps the big fish dislike such passengers, but they are unable to shake the remoras off.

A remora is able, however, to let loose its hold. When a shark or swordfish cuts into a school of small fish, the hitchhiker may swim about and get some food. Then, if possible, it will go back to its position under the shark. The lazy little fish also fastens themselves to the shells of turtles, and to the bottoms of ocean vessels.

We might suppose that such a fish would be good for nothing, but natives of Zanzibar and several other islands make use of it. Capturing one alive, a native fisherman will place a ring tightly around its tail, and will fasten a cord to the ring. Then the remora is set free from the boat. Swimming about it may fasten its disk to a turtle, and the turtle may be pulled aboard the boat. For the sake of the fisherman, we may hope that the remora does not find a shark or swordfish!

Students See Films

Two reels of films on French Canada were shown by Dr. W. P. Percival, deputy minister for Protestant schools of Quebec, to Victoria High School students. The first film, entitled "The Lure of Quebec," illustrated the beauty of the city. The second depicted the life of French-Canadian schoolchildren, showing their activities at home, in school and tapping the maples for sugar.

Dr. Percival said that it was the patriotic duty of every student of 17 or 18 to stay and finish his or her education.

Ordinations in March

BELLEVEILLE, Ont. (CP)—Commissioners at the United Church of Canada General Council endorsed as a war measure acceleration of theological courses which will speed ordination of students by four to 10 months. Under the plan 67 will be ordained next March. The General Council at its Thursday session accepted an amendment of Dr. A. E. Kerr, Halifax, that theological colleges have authority to arrange the plan to suit local conditions.

If You Can No Longer RENT A HOUSE... I Suggest You Buy One... That Will Help?

Real Estate men are busy these days... they are busy selling new and not-so-new houses to people who want to live in Victoria. If you've been talking of renting lately... change your hat and talk about BUYING.

The TIMES brings you a variety of houses each day in the Real Estate Pages. Lots of these houses have a homey, lived-in atmosphere. The lawns, shrubbery and gardens have been developed... and no new house could offer you the pleasant, happy atmosphere that goes with a seasoned rose garden... or a lily pond.

It may only cost a little to have the old sink of one of these houses replaced with a new model sink; or perhaps the house you like has no built-in cupboards... these, too, for a small output can be installed.

Consider well before you buy. Real Estate offices have plenty of listings of lovely homes. Look for them through the Ads in the VANCOUVER (CP) — Col. G. M. Shrum, officer commanding the University of British Columbia contingent of the Canadian Officers' Training Corps, says students who do not attain satisfactory standing in the Christmas examinations will receive no further postponements of their call-up for military duty. The ruling was made by draft board officials in Vancouver, and not by the university.

ONE MINUTE NEWS ABOUT JOHNS-MANVILLE

Octogenarian Policy

Pilots '42 Progress

Just a few days ago, while reading an early history of Johns-Manville, your reporter came across an interesting sentence. Referring to Mr. H. W. Johns, one of the founders of 'Johns-Manville, it said: "For 10 years—since 1858—he has been developing the use of asbestos by personal, scientific research." Even in those early days, Mr. Johns had established research as an integral part of the company's business, a policy that has persisted through more than 80 years of J-M's history.

Today, the J-M research laboratories—and the J-M organization at Asbestos, Que., site of the largest asbestos mine in the world—share the credit for the development of hundreds of products used to control fire, heat, motion and sound. Originated for peacetime service in home and industry more than 1,000 of these products are now being used in one way or another to speed victory. And J-M research still marches on—pioneering new ways, improving the old.

Mine Inquiry Ends

NANAIMO (CP) — The final meeting of the commission appointed by Labor Minister Humphrey Mitchell to confer with representatives of the United Mine Workers of America and officials of the Canadian Collieries (Dunsmuir) Ltd. was held here Thursday afternoon.

Prof. W. C. McBride of McGill University, chairman of the commission, said that a round-table conference was held after hearing arguments and depositions from the miners' representatives and officials of the colliery company.

The commission will give further study to the evidence submitted and prepare its findings, which will in turn be forwarded to the Minister of Labor at Ottawa.

To supply agriculture's nitrogen requirements for fertilizer during the coming year, an estimated 400,000 tons must be made available, less than half of which can be supplied from organic vegetable and animal by-products.
